Dr. Metcalf Draws the Blueprints

As superintendent, Dr. Metcalf this year has a dual role. In addition to his regular duties of blueprinting the organization of the school year, he must cope with the new problems the construction imposes. Conferences with teachers, builders, and students fill the school day.

Despite his crowded schedule he is never too busy to spark pep assemblies, attend student dances, and maintain a close personal contact with the student body. His firm support of Bloom and loyalty to its ideals is reflected by the cheer he invariably requests at pep assemblies—We're from Bloom, couldn't be prouder.

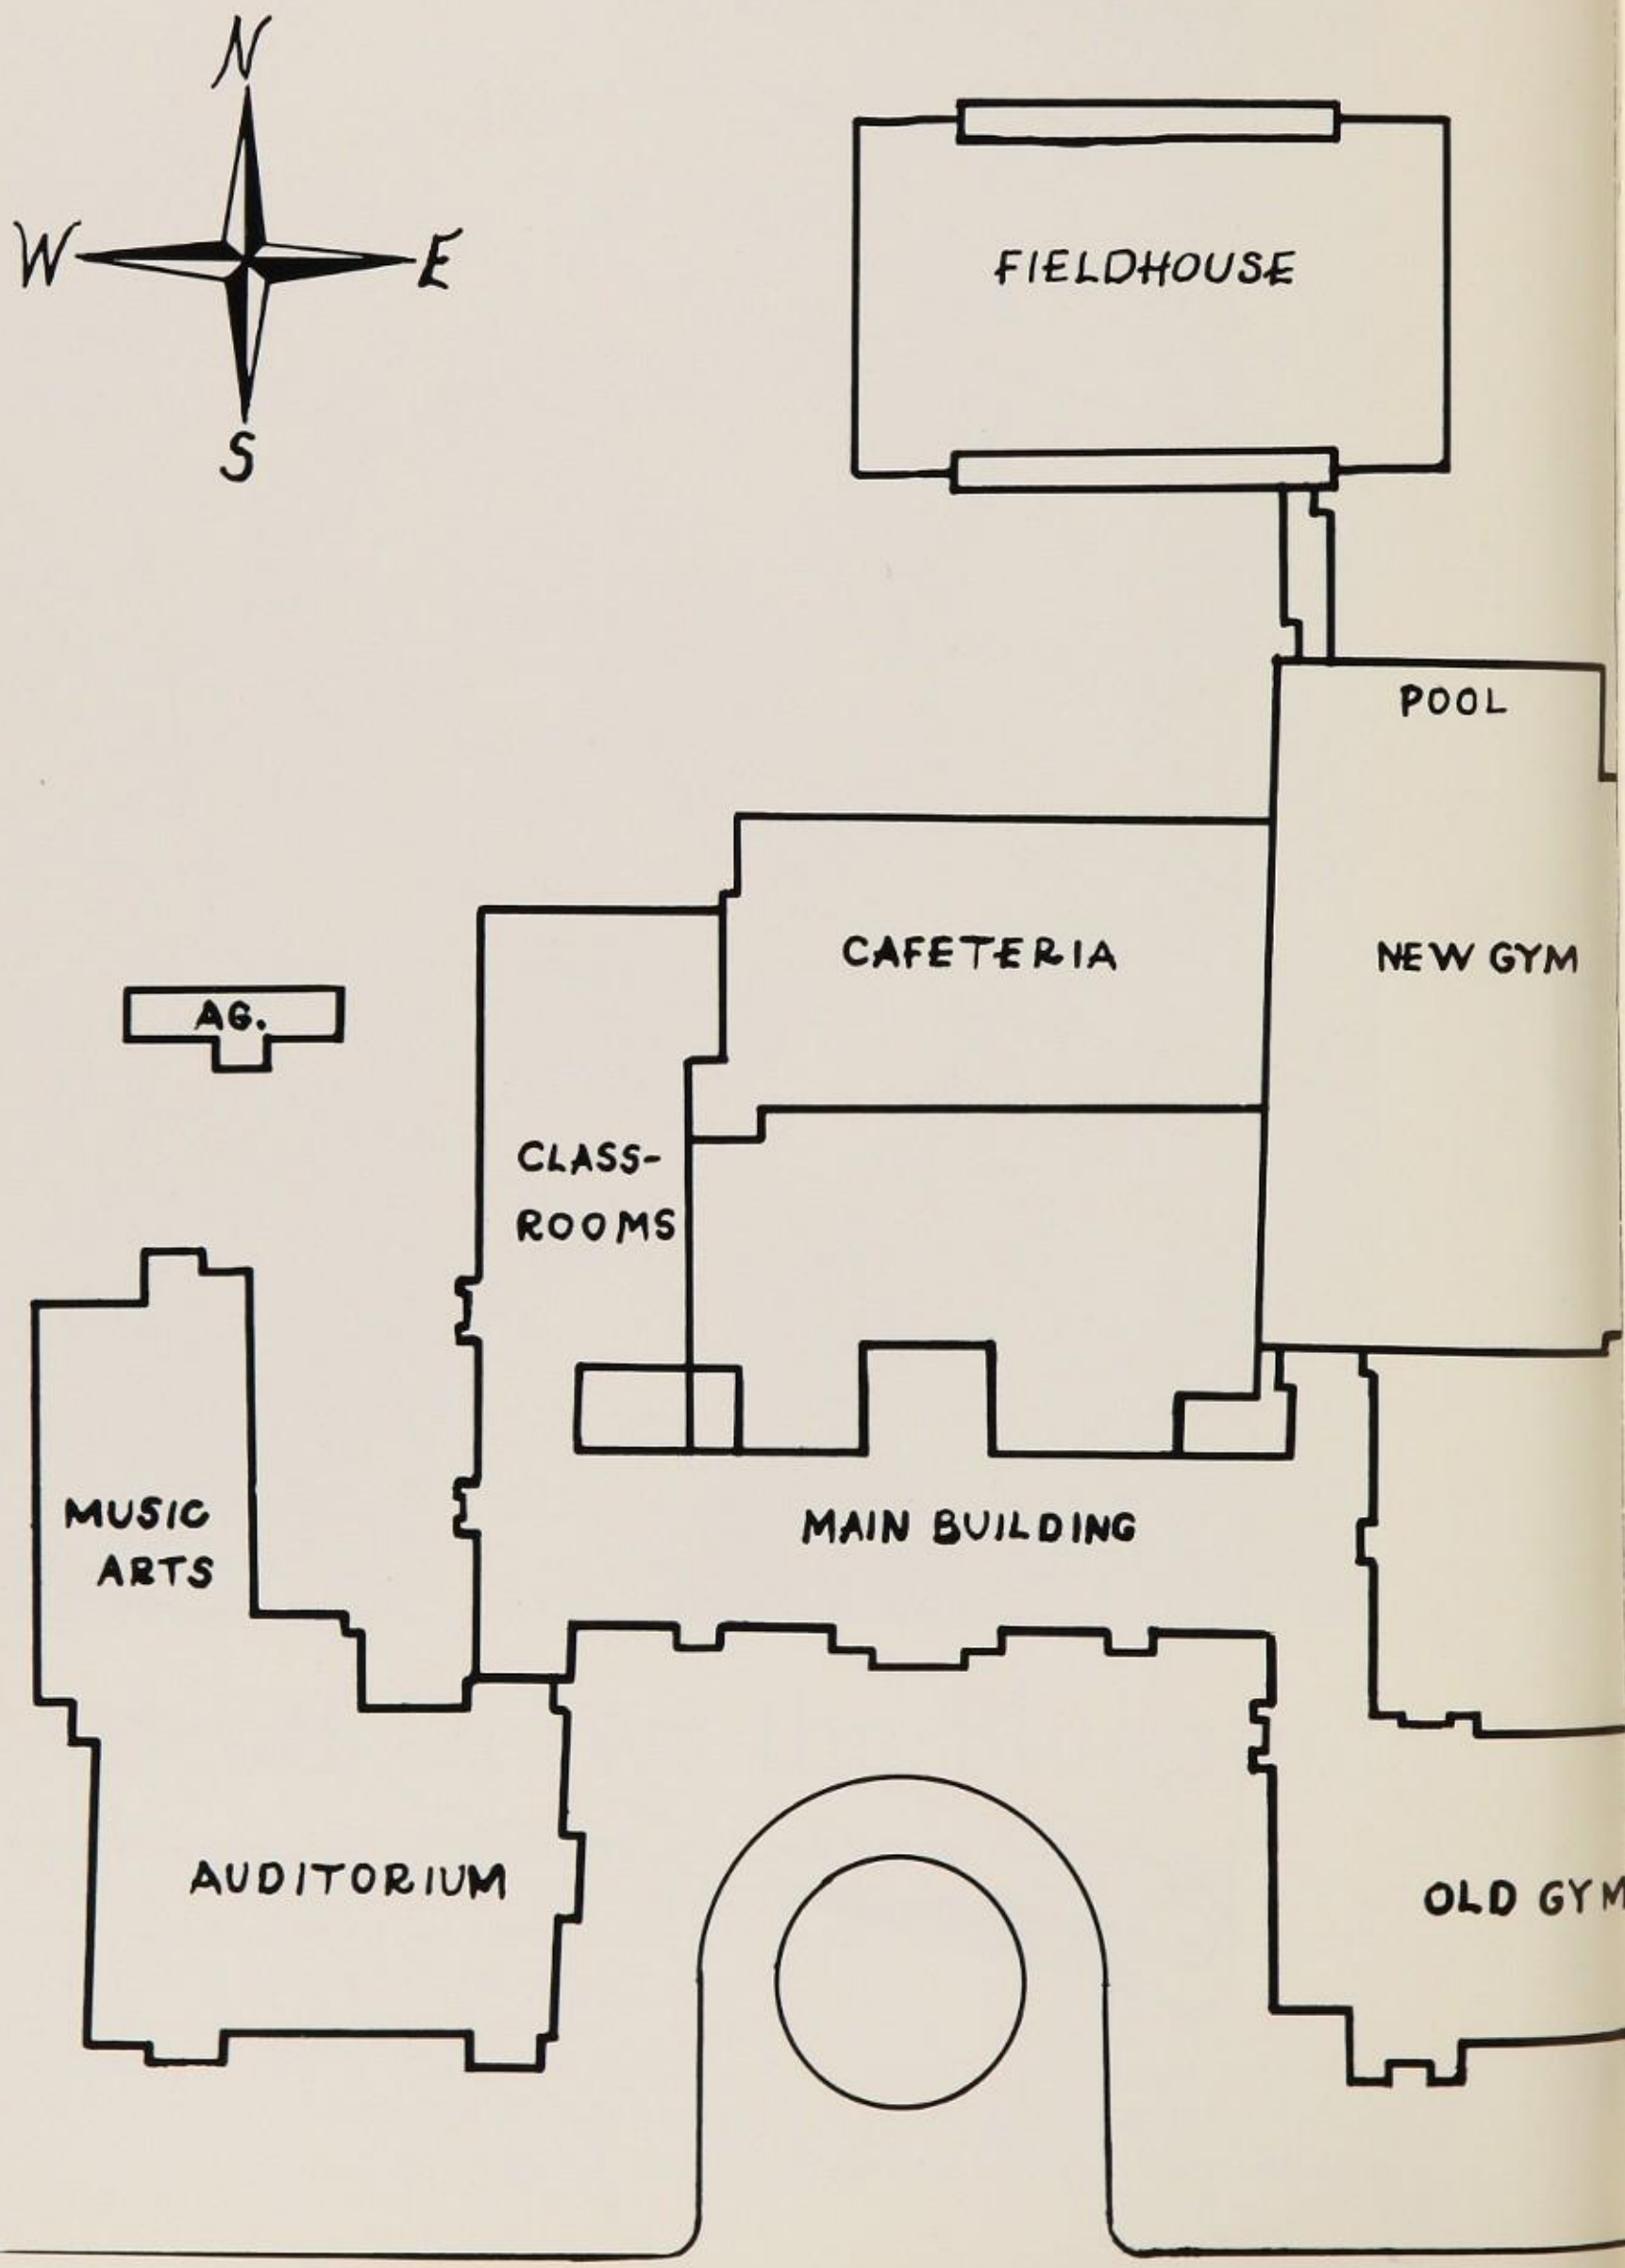
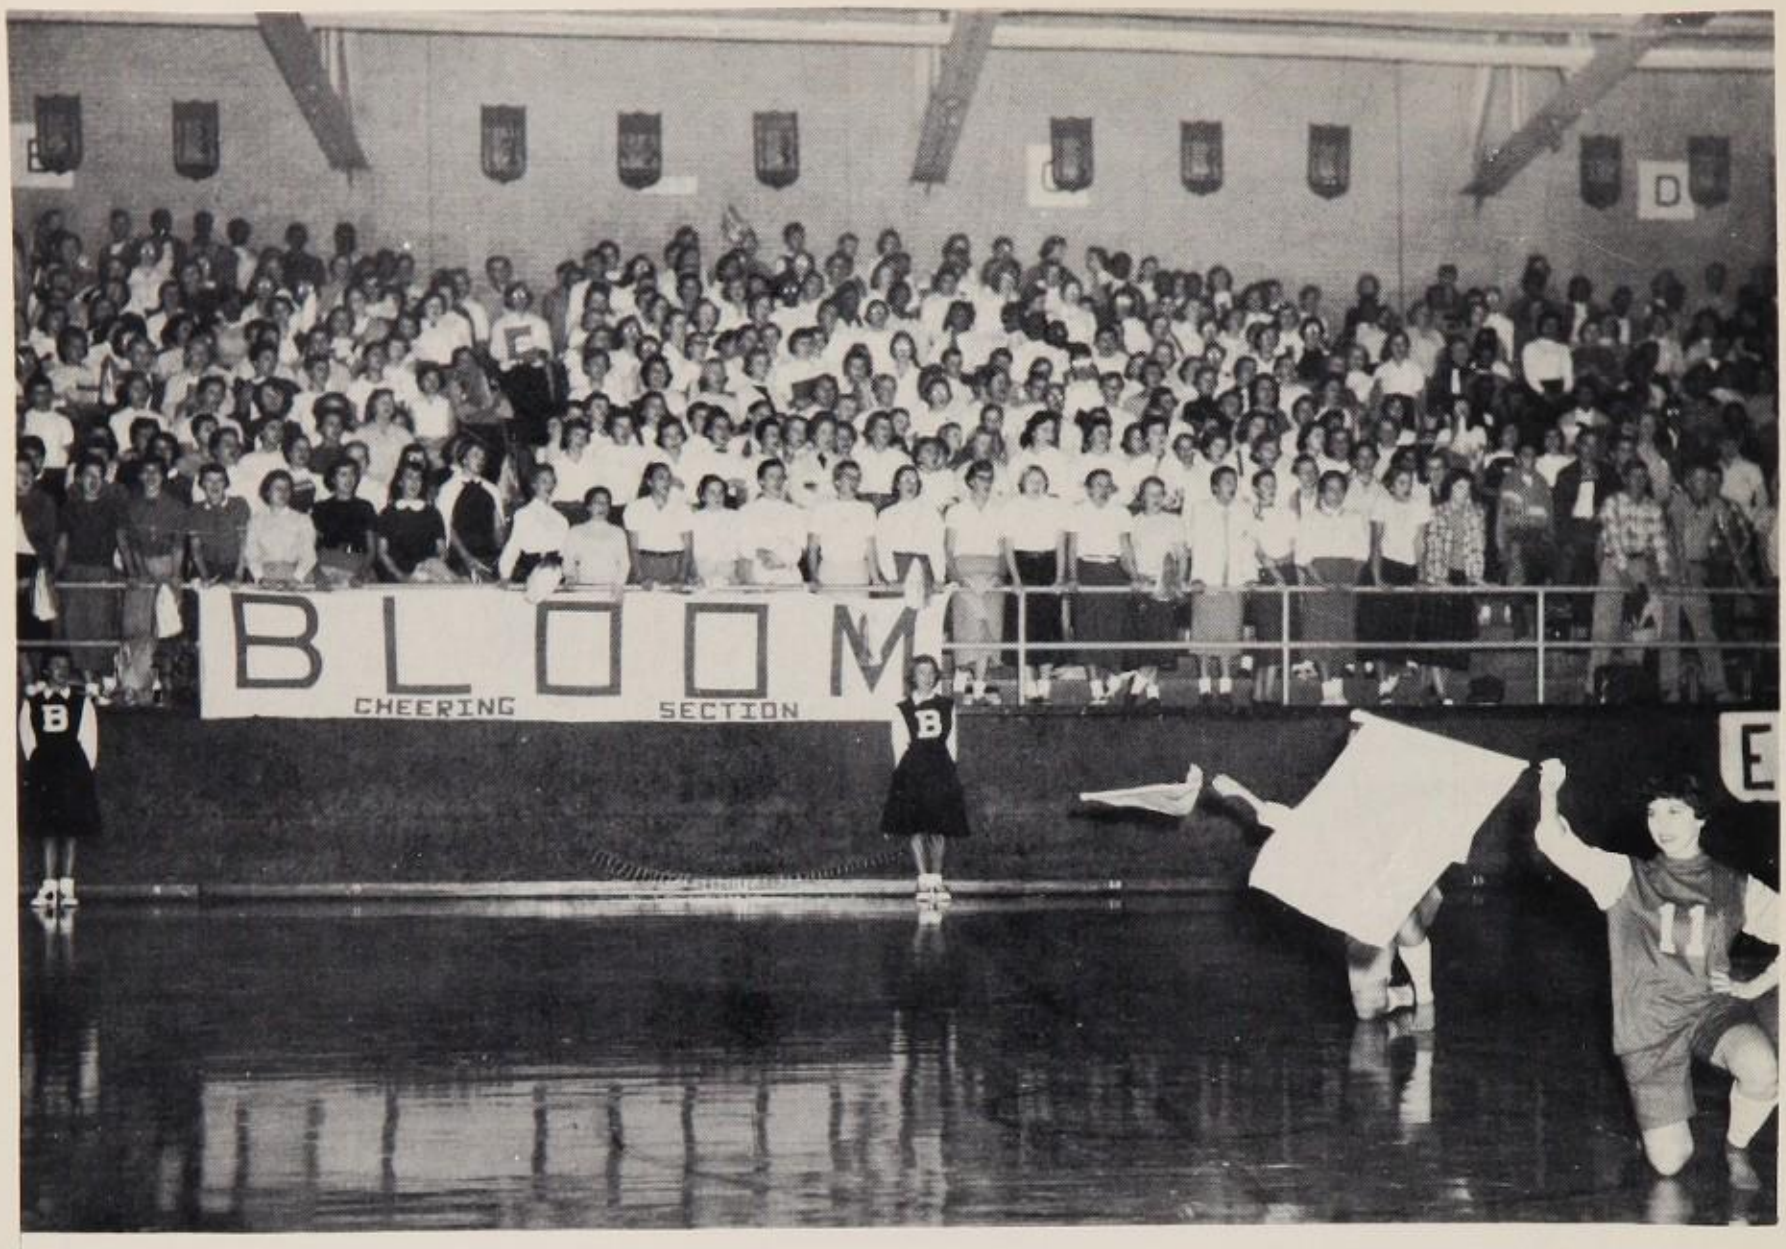
BLOOM LIFE Covers Wide



Area

To each student, school means something different. To the social butterfly it means dances, club meetings, chatter, and the weekly games. To the athlete it is making the team, basketball season, and the South Suburban Conference. To the studious it is classes, credits, and report cards. Yes, it is this—all of it, and more. A school is not only the bricks and buildings but the people inside, the faculty, classes, clubs, and committees, combined into one—Bloom Life.



Bloomites back the team and show their spirit at an after-school pep rally, aided by cheerleaders and majorettes.

Bloom Life Is All This

No longer is school a routine of classes, lunch, and more classes. Now the building hums at all hours with club meetings, dinners, dances, and games. During school hours students roam halls, soliciting contributions, selling pencils, or rushing to a college conference. All of these together—social activities, classes, and athletics—make up that which is different to each student but known to them all as Bloom Life.

Freshmen Judy Prystalski, Lois Pulmacher, Margaret Cochrane, and Darlene Nietfeldt hope the driver training cars last until they get a chance to use them.

Albert Hoecker counts out change to buy some of the candy Marian Panici is selling. Hungry Bloomites storm this first floor nook as soon as the 3:20 bell rings.

Connie Seiter appeals to the charitable instincts of Bob DeBolt and Bonnie Slov as she collects during one of the City of Bloom charity drives.

As each brick is added by skillful workmen, the modern cafeteria is that much nearer completion.

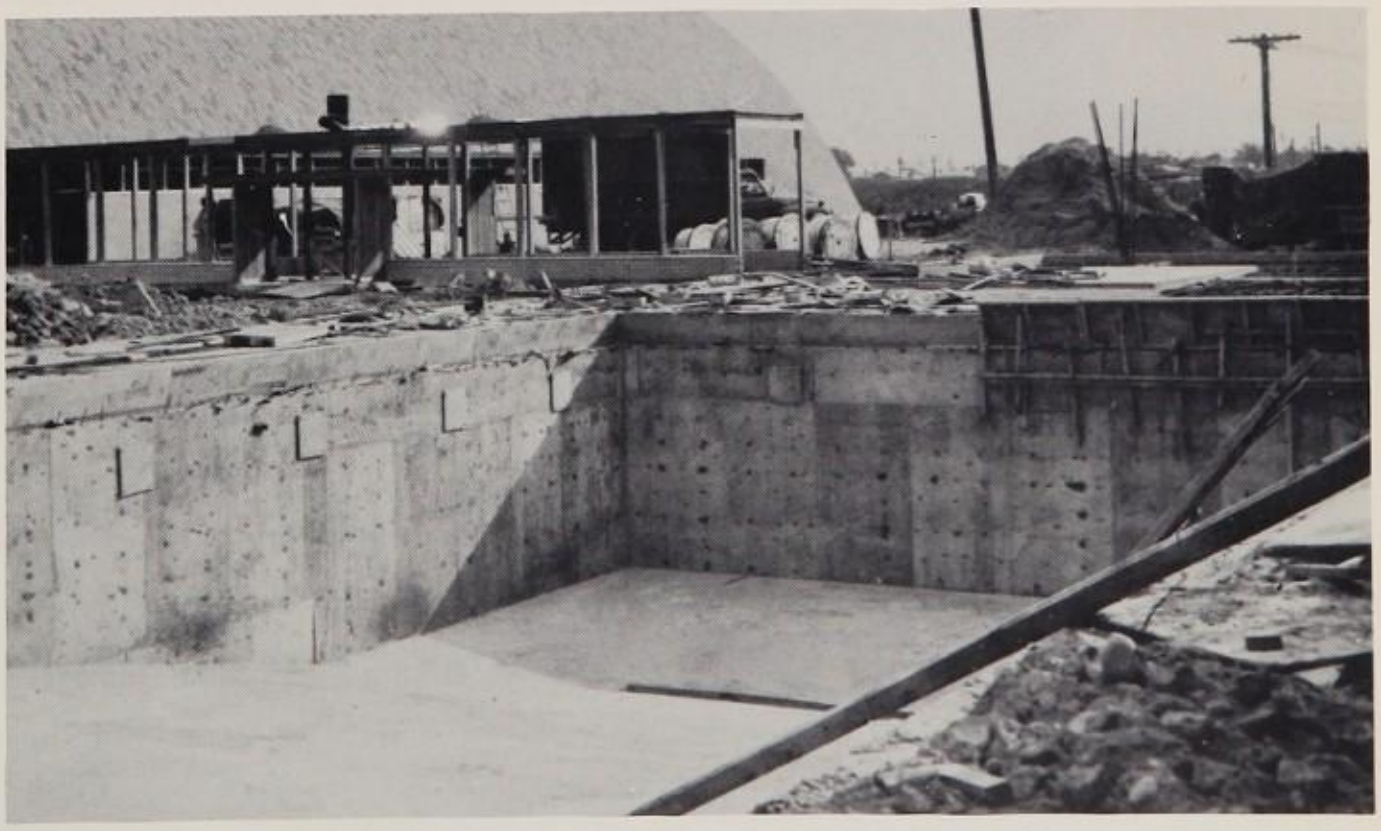
Blueprint Dreams Come True

This open-air amphitheatre was soon transformed into the new auditorium.

First the expansion was merely a dream—a pleasant one. Then the minds of men began to make the dream come true as the bond issue was passed, architects drew up plans, and construction workers moved in. Slowly, under the very eyes of Bloomites, a new school grew. It wasn't an easy growth. There were delays, problems, unexpected expenses. Teachers struggled to be heard above the roar of tractors and steady grinding of cement mixers. When the noise ceased and the ever-present dust settled, there stood the beginning of New Bloom — a dream come true.

The little theatre was the perfect spot for drama club plays, lectures, and Speech Activity practices.

Students counted from classroom windows as the ribs of the field house rose.



Bloom students will be in the swim when this pool is completed.

Our new fieldhouse, the pride of coaches C. M. Sarff, Frank Buchtel, Fred Jacobeit, and Ed Krumm, stands as a symbol of Bloom's sudden new interest in athletics.

Something New Among

Mr. Barton Herr gives business training classes a preview of the new battery telephone which will soon be used in speech and English classes.

The New Year came for Bloomites on September 4, when they returned to classes after a leisurely summer vacation. There were new teachers, new students, new buildings, and new classes. New clocks ticked in classrooms, and the cafeteria finally sported new posters. Of course, to freshmen, everything was new, but upperclassmen found the old familiar, too. Seniors ventured into Mr. Nelson's chemistry lab, as other seniors had done before them, and familiar trophies gleamed with new ones in the front hall.

Mr. Dale Lawton demonstrates the trick of boiling water until it turns to ice before his seventh hour physics class.

Familiar School Scenes

Mr. Schneider shows the correct forms of letters to one of his many typing classes.

Busy Teachers Take it Easy

Gene Sadus fires questions at Advanced World History classmates in a cracker-barrel quiz.

As a rule teachers spent each class period busily drilling fundamentals into the subconsciouses of students. Once in a while, especially in advanced classes, they turned leadership of discussions over to competent students, and relaxed comfortably—supervising.

Chuck Kline holds the attention of a Senior Comp class while Miss Schoff relaxes.

Classmates Rosanne Battaglia and Karin Anderson have front row seats for Ron Linnemann's explanation of a hornet's nest in an advanced biology class.

Here's Bloom Without Books

No books here as Lucille Streib, Kathy Brown, and Phyllis Wojcik practice their cooking theories. Right: Flag twirlers Mary Niblock, Carol Kantzler, and Mary Lou LoBue have one final rehearsal for half-time entertainment.

Don Zeller, working at the Star office in the photo department, is one of the students participating in the Bloom Diversified Occupations program, now the largest in the state. John Prombo, the director, spends mornings in the classroom, teaching theory, and afternoons supervising students in photo shops, the hospital, and various local businesses.

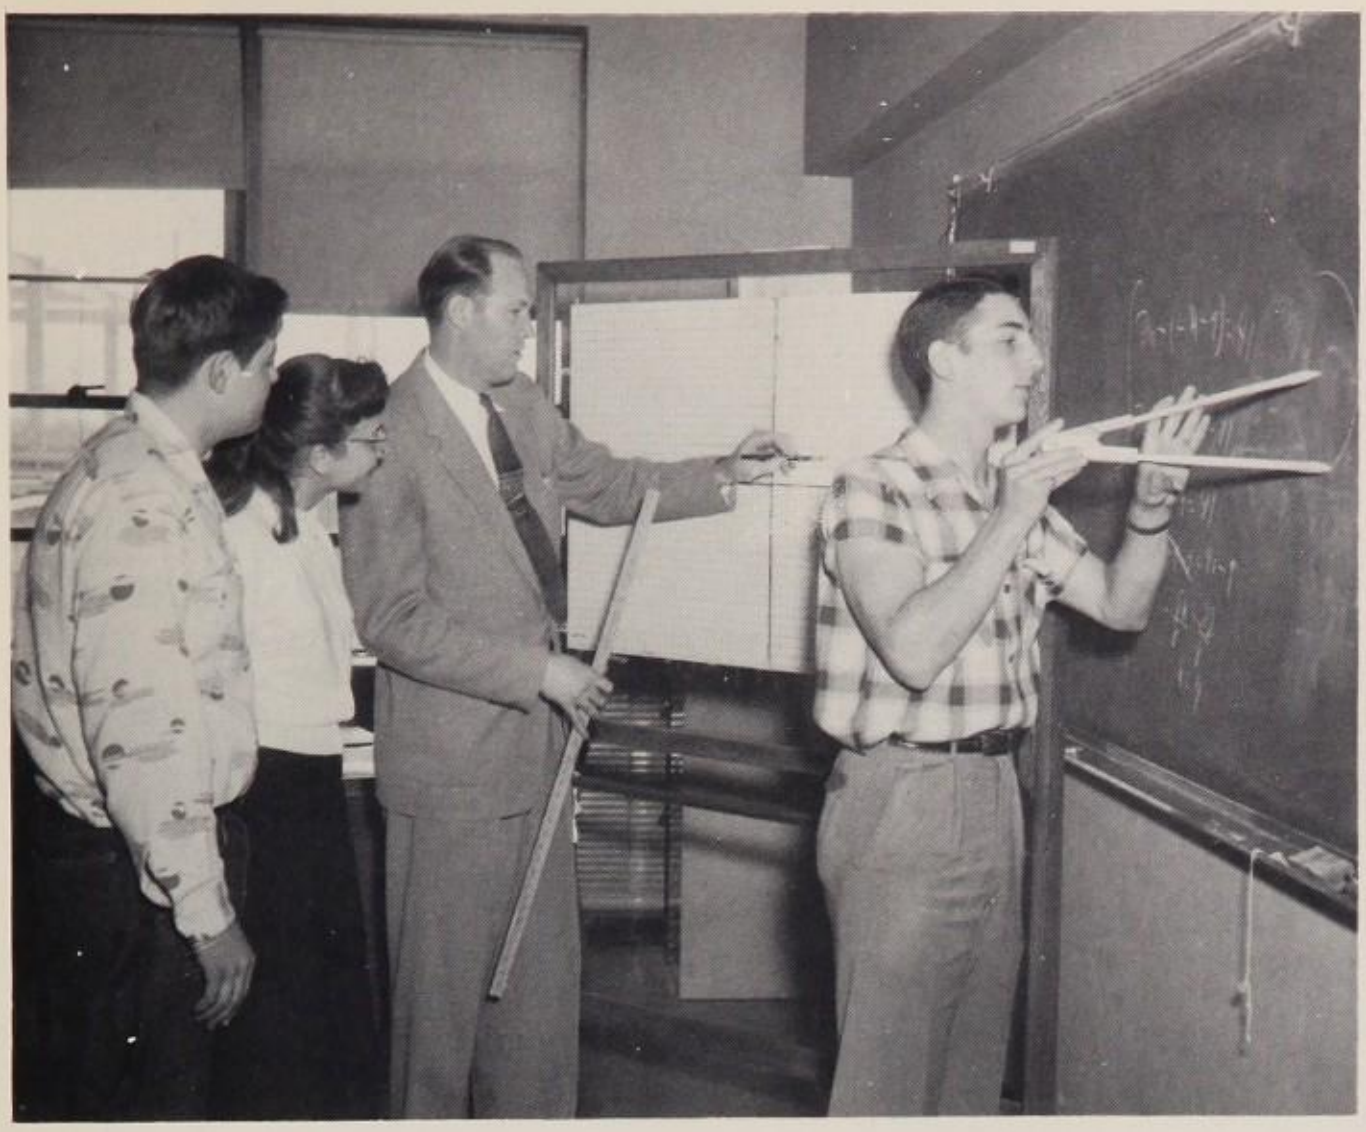
Building May Disrupt Classes . . .

Carol Sawyer, Dorothy Smardack, Sue Sayles, Carol Bonea, and Lois Forney are among the girls who bundle up for the chilly dash from the new fieldhouse to the gym.

It is impossible for a project the size of the Bloom expansion to progress without interrupting classes somewhat. Students in the new section endured weeks of shivering in windowless classrooms, while additions to the heating plant left the rest of the school also without heat. Pounding often drowned out teachers' voices, but they just repeated their words. Confusion, inconvenience—but wait 'til next year!

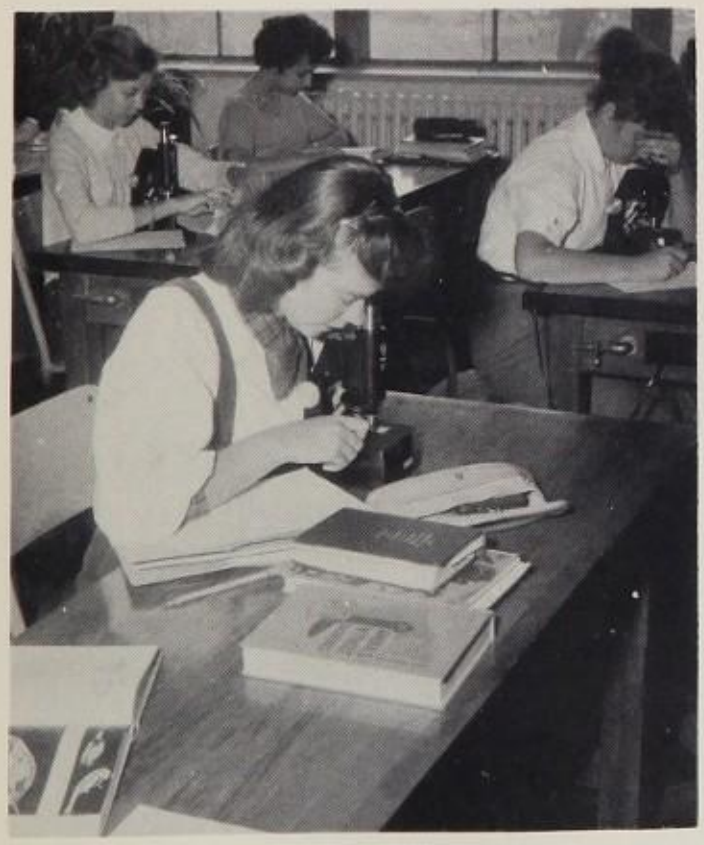
The cafeteria won't be ready until next year, so because of lack of space, the teachers ate in classrooms. Here Miss Render, Miss Printz and Mr. Kuras prepare to meet the afternoon classes.

Though classmates Byron Conant, Adam Frecowski and Phil Harper study the construction of a leaf, Bob Gayton finds the construction of an auditorium more absorbing.



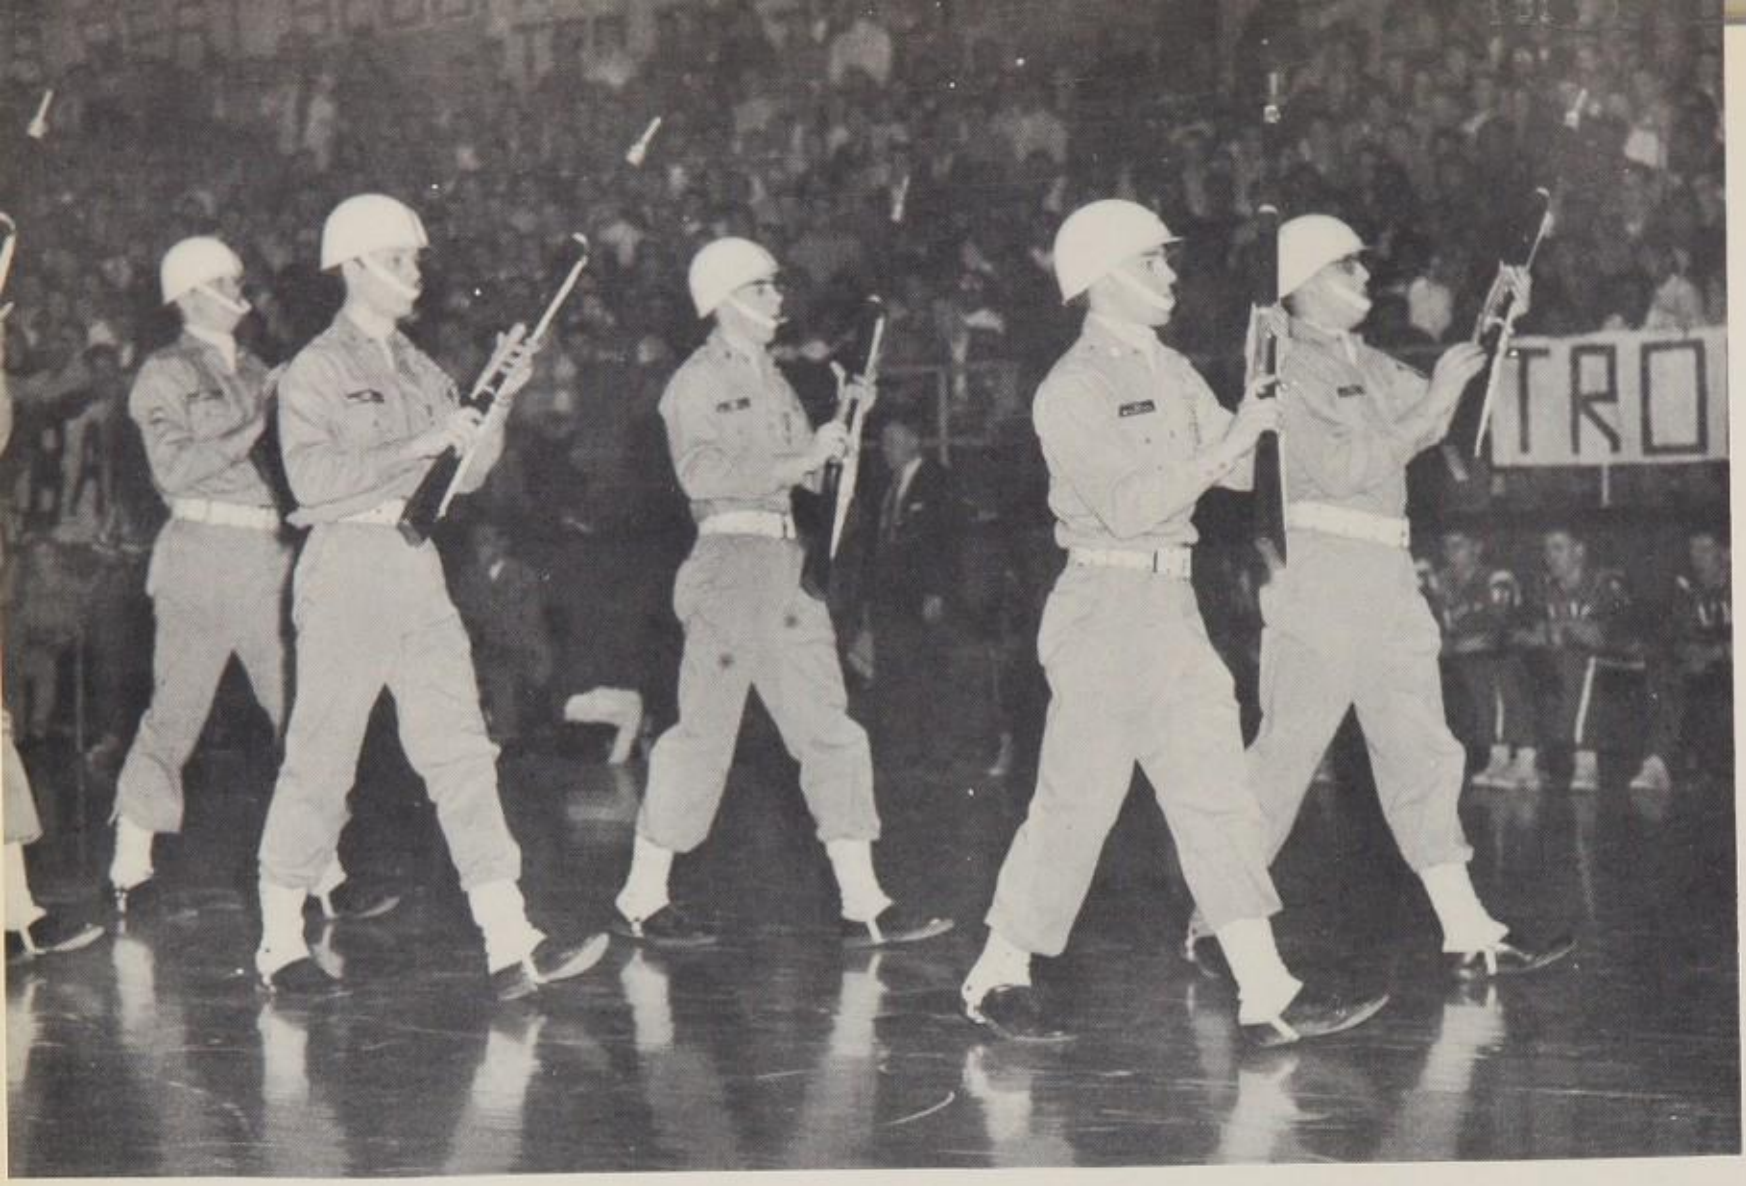
Mr. Hamlin shows geometry students Dave Moore and Mary Petreikis how to graph, while George DeFrancesco illustrates a problem.

Carol Beers studies the structure of a leaf in biology class.



Judy Lind is oblivious to any interruptions. Her interest is centered on a new dress.

But the Classes Continue



The Illinois championship CAP drill team performs between halves for the spectators at the Bloom-Thornton game.

Entertainment Livens Half-time

The buzzer signaling the end of the first half of any basketball or football game also is the signal for the beginning of half-time entertainment, usually provided by the majorettes and flag twirlers, with the pep band. Occasionally, for variety, a different group, such as the CAP drill team, helped the time between halves speed by.

Batons are neglected as majorettes and flag twirlers use pom-poms to beat out a rock and roll rhythm.

Oriental Fantasy Introduces

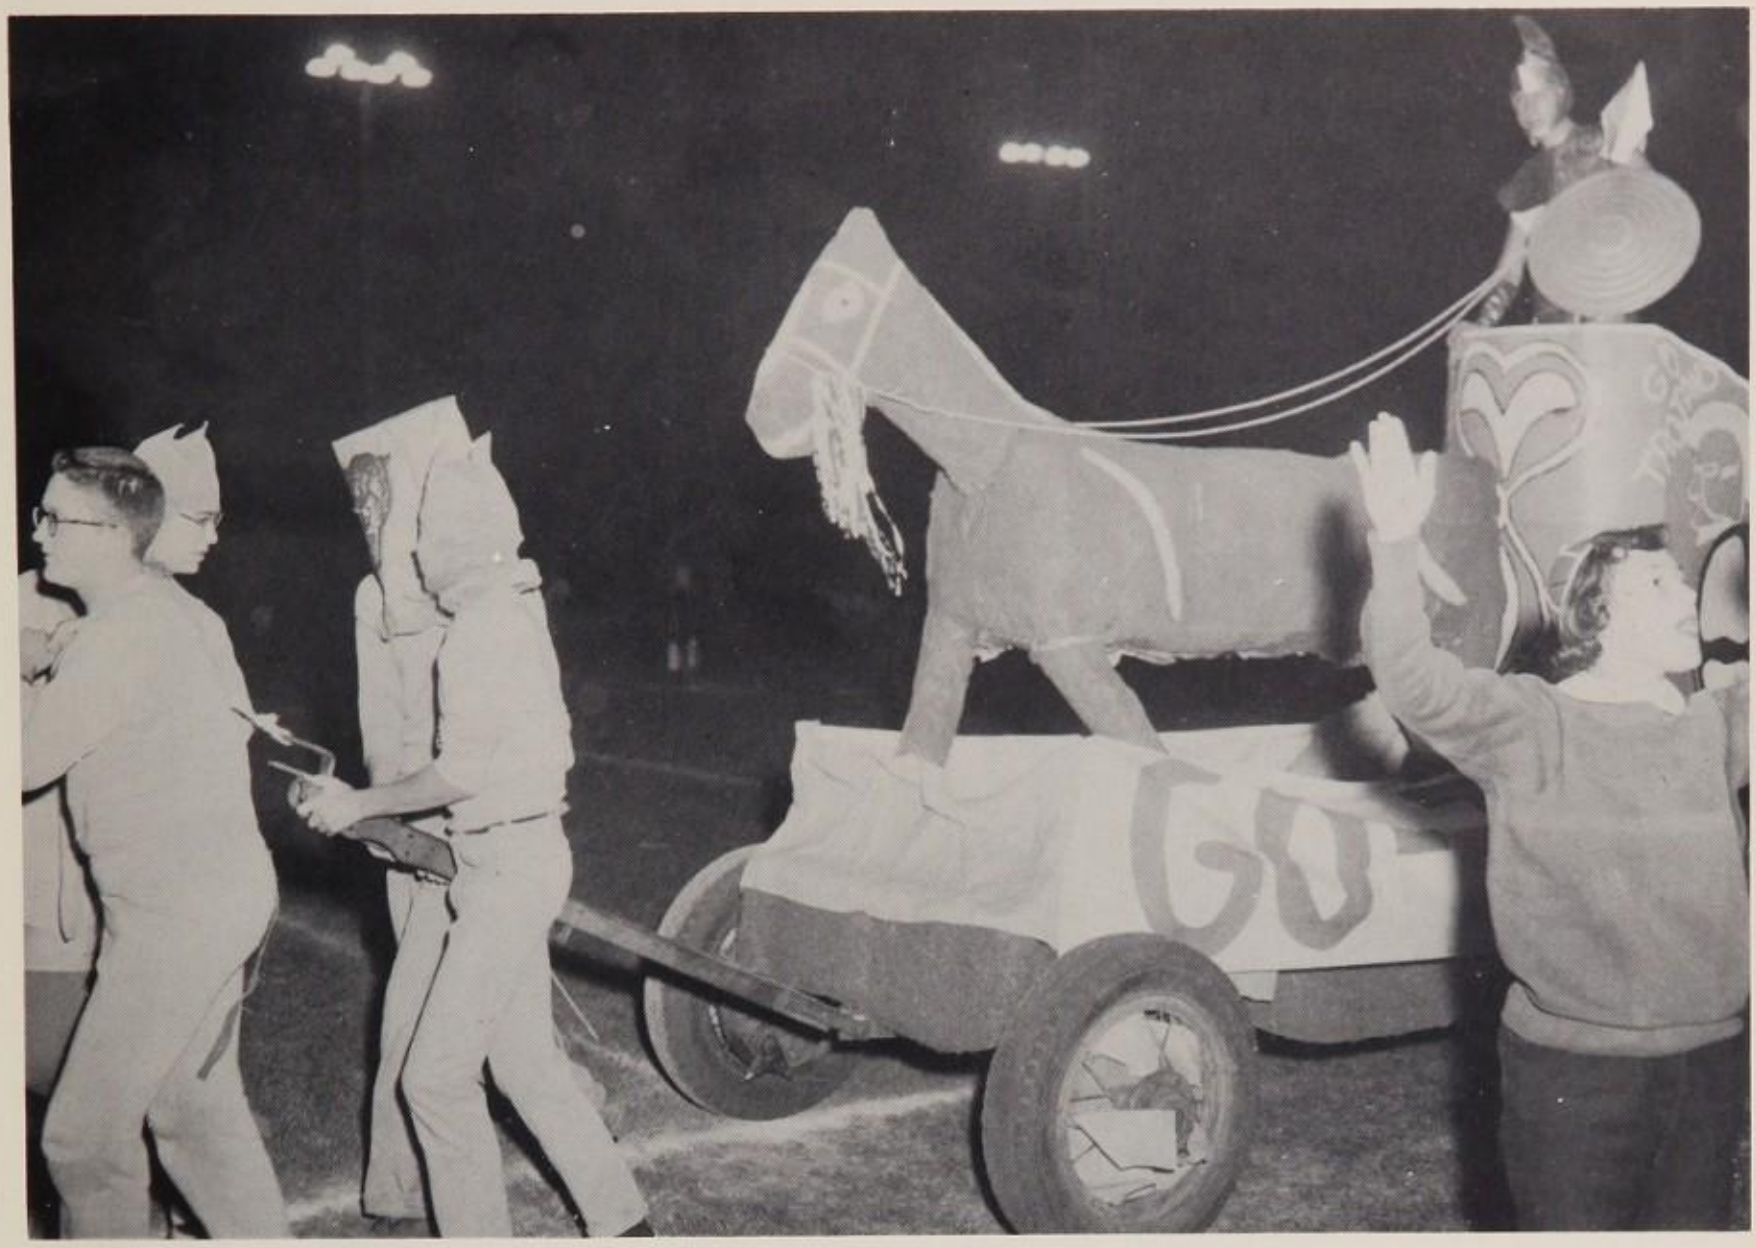
Bloomites to Magic of Far East

Joan Boyd and Tom Smith congratulate Gerry Clarey and Virginia Willis as they sit surrounded by court members Harry Osterman, Sharon Galiene, Pat Noll, and Ron Milnes.

Pat Noll and Joe Bullaro cut an Oriental rug to a rock and roll tune.

By the light of glowing Chinese lanterns dancers whirled to the music of Johnny Marlowe's orchestra at the 1956 Homecoming, Oriental Fantasy. The air of glamor and excitement was heightened by the mystic spell of the Far East. Tension mounted until 11 o'clock, when beneath a flowing red canopy, Queen Virginia Willis and King Gerald Clarey were crowned by last year's royal couple, Tom Smith and Joan Boyd.



The victorious Trojan, Charles Didrickson, arrives on a Peporama float drawn by the conquered Wildcat slaves.

Peporama Replaces Snake Dance

The Peporama Princess, Virginia Willis is crowned by Dr. Metcalf.

Not a pep rally, not a dance, but a combination of both constituted the first Peporama to be held at Bloom. A king-sized rally on the football field generated the enthusiasm which students worked off at a dance in the gym.

Bloom traditionally holds some sort of activity on the eve of the annual Bloom-Thornton game. Up until this year it was the snake dance, but with the wonderful acceptance of the Peporama by Bloomites, this will probably become the yearly event.

Informal Dances Celebrate Wins

Within one month Bloomites had two chances to let off steam after a big victory. Although the annual Blue and White dance on February 1 was intended to relieve post-exam blues, the win over Lockport was an even better reason to rejoice. Then, exactly one month later, March 1, the gym was again filled with dancing couples. This time, however, the opposition joined in the fun at the Tro-Cat Tromp. Bloom and Thornton students forgot their rivalry for the night as they marked the end of the basketball season together. Proceeds from the dance were put in a fund to finance a foreign student at Bloom.

Trojans and Wildcats momentarily forget friendly feuds as they meet at the Tro-Cat Tromp.

Loyal Bloomites "jump" for joy at the Blue and White Dance.

Dancers Sway to Southern Melodies

They'd looked forward to it for months. He was splendidly dressed in his tux and she was beautiful in her gown. Both were filled with a sense of anxious anticipation as they entered into the dreamland of the Junior-Senior Prom, and among magnolia blossoms and cyprus trees they began to dance to the wave-like strains of Southern Melodies. The boys' gym was transformed into a fantasyland of colorful couples floating and swaying to the music of Jim Lounsbury and his band.

Too soon it was over. He walked her to the door and there was nothing left but memories. Memories which would forever remain in their minds—Southern Melodies, the Prom of 1956.

Joe Bullaro Pat Noll, Jack Altman, Rosanne Battaglia, Don Lauer, and Virginia Willis parade at the head of the Grand March.

Juniors Revive Wild West

Barbara Vollmer, portraying a cowboy hero, woos Western belle Mary Umfleet outside the doors of the Green Door Saloon.

Against a background of war whoops and gunfire, the Junior class presented a wild west assembly. Ron Ignelzi introduced Richard Buratto, the master of ceremonies, who presided from the stage of the Green Door Saloon. Dances and skits, and musical numbers typified the life of the western town. Indians obliged with war dances, and hero Brenton Field rescued lovely songbird Penny Lale from the clutches of villains Kurt Augusten and Don Robertson.

Gail Malizia, Karen Carlson, Janet Graham, Sue Schmitkins, Bonnie Kavinsky, and Karen Stogentin stage a wild Indian war dance.

Pep Assemblies Work Up Steam

Sparked by the newly organized pep club, Bloom cheering reached a new high. Attendance at pep assemblies improved. For variety, the cheerleaders planned skits, such as the one pictured at left, and made it a pleasure for Trojans to back their teams.

Left: Al Inwood interviews a "representative" of the basketball team in an attempt to get an unbiased opinion of the Trojans' chances in the Thornton game.

Even Entertainment Is Educational

Throughout the year Bloomites were treated to assemblies presented by the music department, the U. N. Club, or outside talent, in addition to regular athletic and class assemblies. No one knew what the program would be, as classes crowded into their alloted rows. Perhaps the Balantines, with musical selections, or a trip through outer space. The annual U. N. assembly featured a skit, and Parade of Flags.

Right: U. N. Club members show how WHO helps another family.

"A Night With The Muses"

"A Night with the Muses" was the theme of the annual Roman Banquet, held this year on March 4. A program following the dinner honored the various muses, such as Clio, the muse of history; Terpsichore, the muse of dancing; and Thailia, muse of comedy. The night ended with everyone joining in "Gaudeamus Igitur" in honor of Polyhymnia, muse of sacred music.

"Rubracucula," or in English, "Little Red Riding Hood," is portrayed by Larry Newman and Sandra Stewart.

Girls Give Mom A Holiday

Pat Noll and Angeline Rotolo are movin' along "Side by Side."

Girls escorted their favorite valentines to the Mother-Daughter banquet, "Heart of My Heart." It was the daughters who were doing the giving this time, as they treated Moms to turkey dinners, flowers, and entertainment in a red and white valentine setting. The Girls' League members who worked selling tickets, planning menus, or decorating under the direction of Miss E. Callender and Miss O. Theobald, were repaid for their work by the pleasure and enjoyment of the girls and their Moms.

Faculty Wins Battle of Ages

Experience defeated youth as the teachers romped to a 64-41 victory over the Seniors in the annual Student-Faculty basketball game. Contributing to the faculty win were the pulchritudinous cheerleaders, in their snappy uniforms. Coached by Lynn "Bert" Napoli, the seniors played valiantly, but were unable to stop the Bert Moore piloted team. Admission to the game was a contribution to the Red Cross.

Bob Hildeman cuts off teammate Gene Sadus as "In and Out" Inwoods steals a rebound from "Jumbo" Jacobeit and "Serge" Sokolowski.

It's beauty in motion as cheerleaders R. Reichert, M. Carpenter, T. Dunning, D. Winn, and J. McDonald urge the senior team on.

"Jumbo" as Jacobeit is, he can't keep "Bouncing" Bob Hildeman away from the rebounds.

Referee Bob Bell calls a jump as Coach Jacobeit wrestles the ball away from Don Lauer.

Juniors Reap Pleasure, Profit

Herb Haze and Bob Avery find that box hockey takes more brains than brawn.

Hungry Bloomites urge Sally Helmrath to swirl the cotton candy faster.

Joyce Moellering can still smile, even while pelted with gobs of jello.

Clutching pink, sticky cones of cotton candy, or monkeys-on-a-stick, the crowd milled through the boys' gym. The junior class worked for weeks, preparing for the Penny Social. Colorful booths, signs, and displays testified to the length of their labor. The Spook House and fortune tellers' booths sold intangibles, but thrifty students could get candy, cakes, popcorn, or favors in return for their pennies—and nickels, and dimes. Any regret over swiftly vanishing allowances was just as swiftly assuaged by thoughts that "This year's Prom will be the best."

Hallie isn't interested in what Dan MacMaster is saying. The flashy new car claims her attention.

The lights dim, the curtain parts, and suddenly it's not March, 1957, but July 4, 1902. The Star Wagon has transported the class of '57 and the audience across time barriers to the past. Seniors practiced after school, Saturdays, and Sundays (Again? But I'm hungry!) and spent spare time painting sets ("More blue on that flat"), gathering props ("Who would have an essex?"), choosing costumes ("I refuse to wear that ugly rag"), and selling tickets to prepare this play by Maxwell Andersen. Student committees headed by faculty members made the arrangements and did the work. The credit for direction goes to Miss Leitha Paulsen of the English department.

Seniors Preview College Life

Jazz sessions, songfests, and fraternity initiations were the rule as the senior class gave its impression of a day in the life of Joe College, portrayed by Bob Hildeman. The seniors' view of the future involved everything from Hillbilly music by the Aragoosa County Boys to jazz by the Cool Collegiates. There was even a Spike Jones presentation of "The Tennessee Waltz"—not to mention "Hound Dog" sung by Dave "Elvis" Leahy.

A swinging-swaying dance called the "Cha Cha," a portrayal of "You Gotta be a Football Hero," and other acts rounded out an outstanding class assembly.

The cool collegiates gave their impression of hot college jazz in a real-gone way.

One of the more sophisticated numbers of the assembly was the rendition of "The Tennessee Waltz" by Dave Cohler, John Greven, Dave Auguston, Mark Blucher, Harvey Neer, and Jerry Davis.

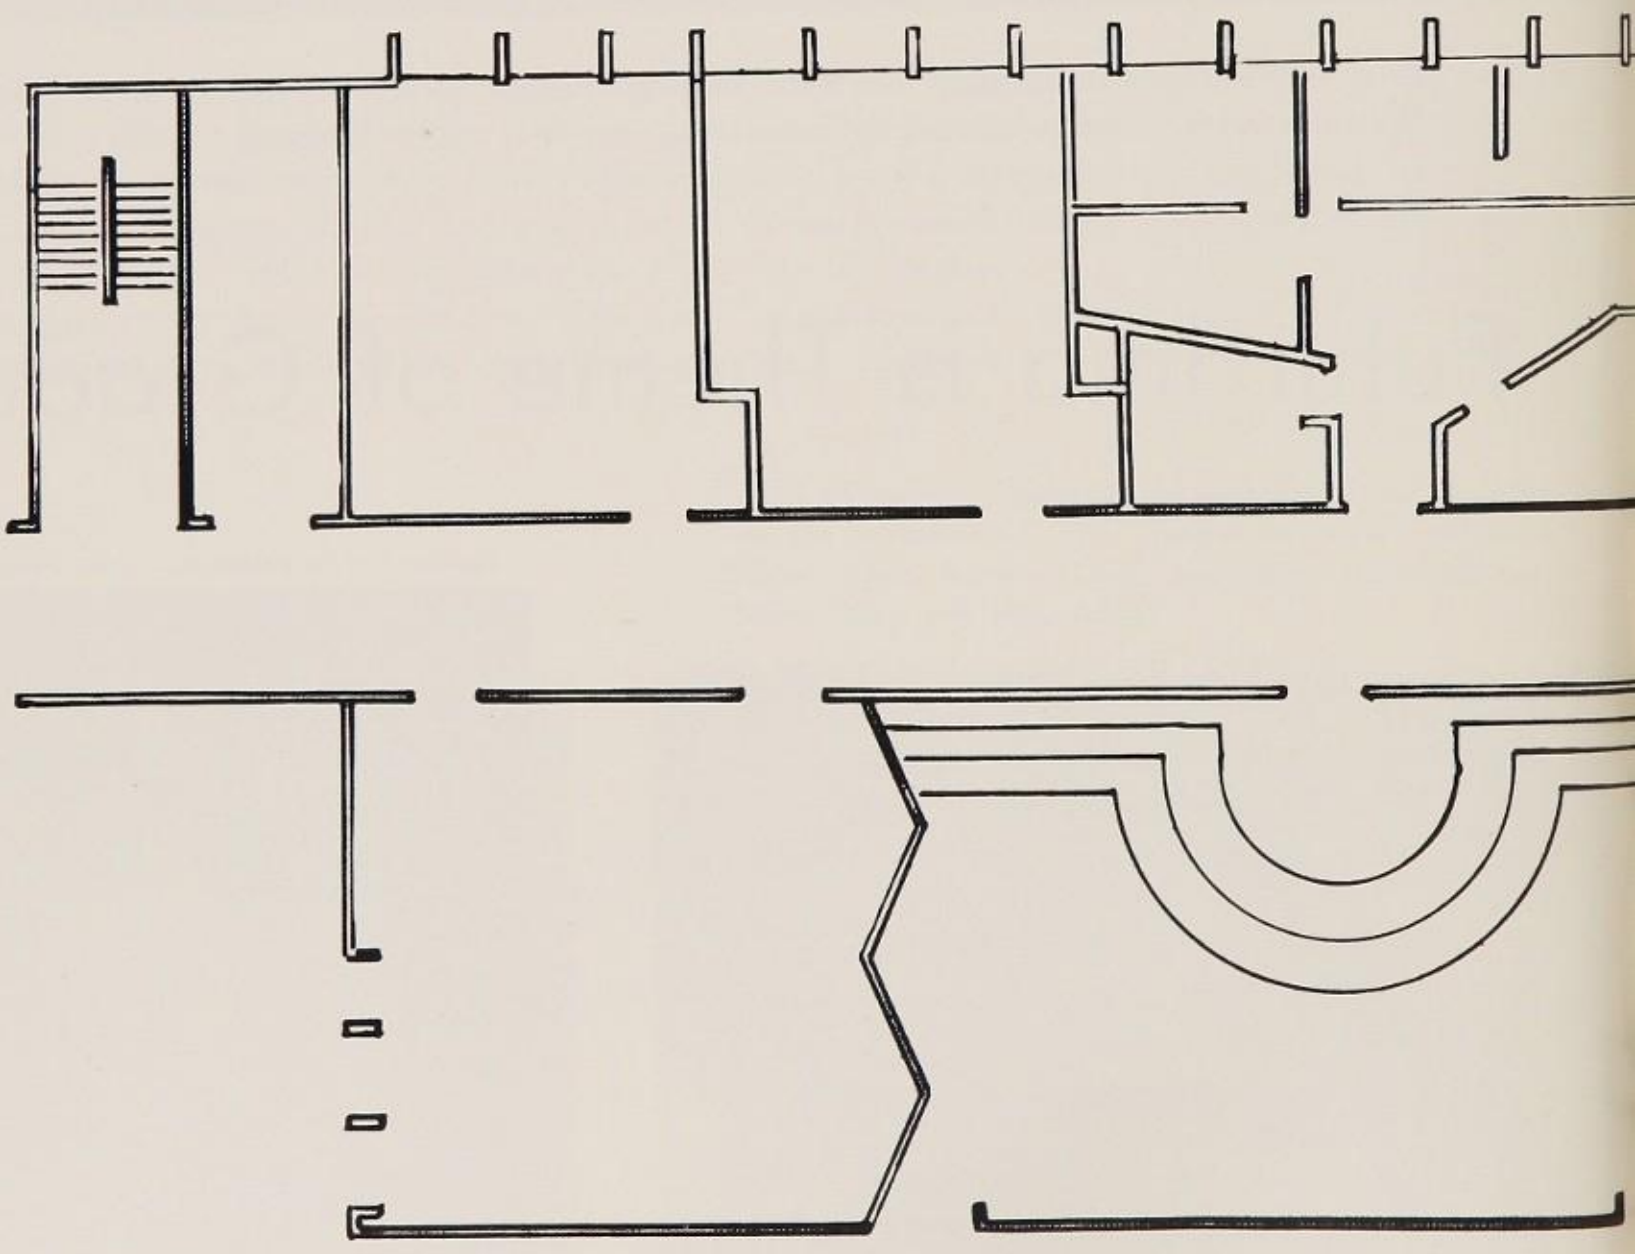
The Senior Class assembled with the rest of the school for the last time on Class Day, when they presented their visions of "Futurama" for the underclassmen.

Futurama is Theme of Graduation

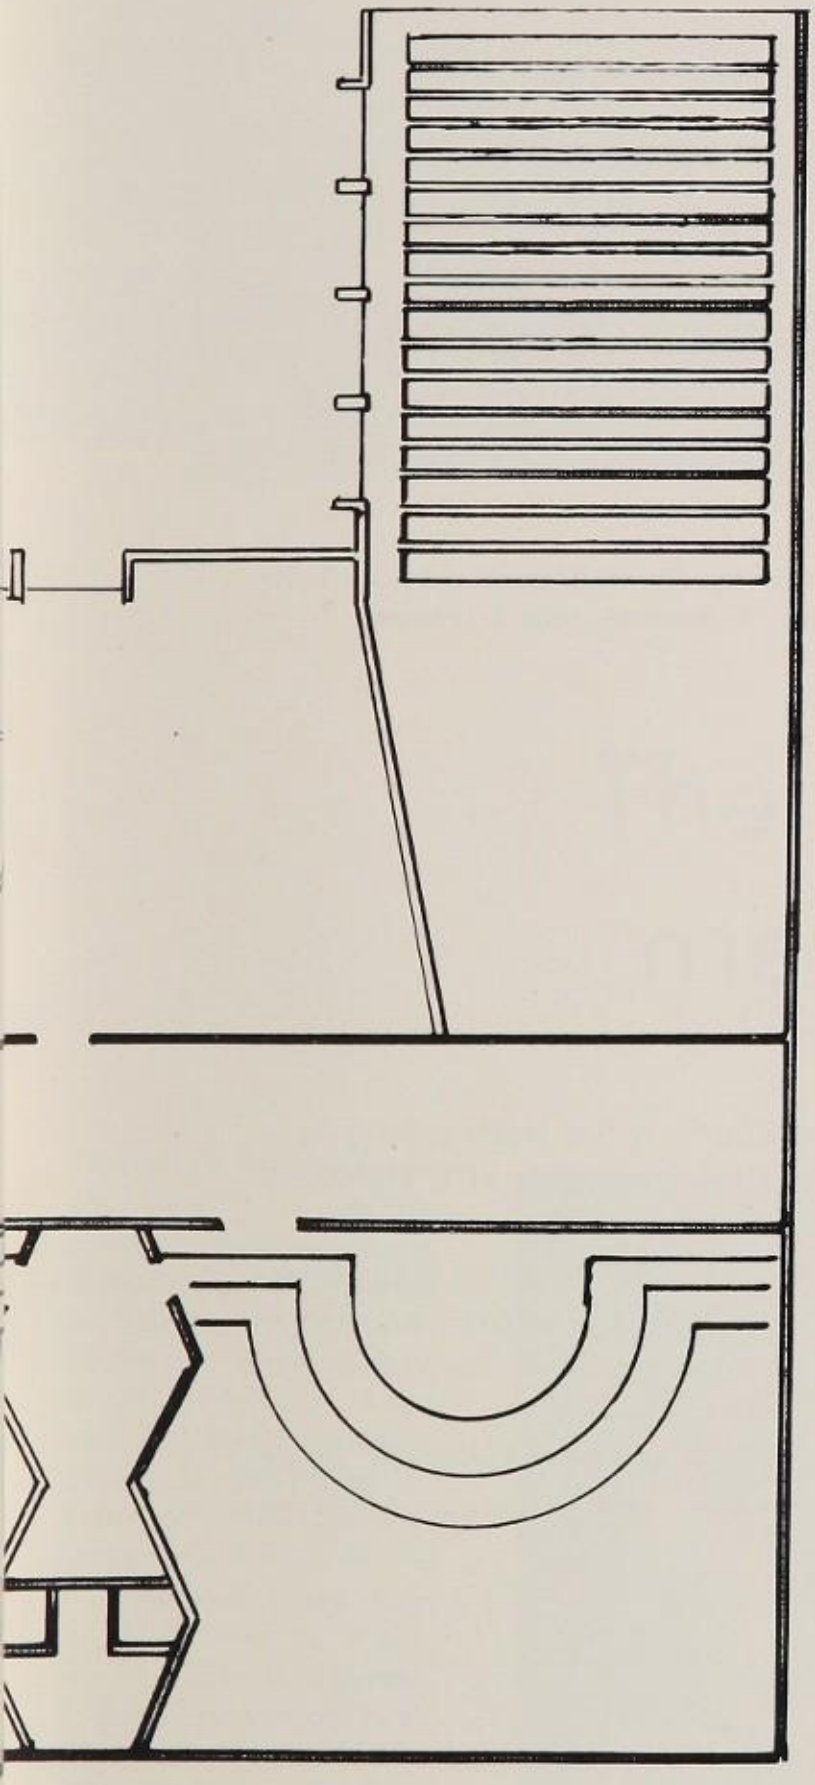
For weeks the seniors thought of nothing else. Gym classes were devoted to marching, and frantic days were filled with committee meetings for senior dinner, class day, and baccalaureate. Through all these busy weeks no one lost sight of the primary objective—Graduation. But too soon the moment was over. Where once a class had sat, there were now just individuals, clutching new diplomas.

Germaine Passarelli, Carol Gockstetter, and Carolyn Schomas prepare for the "Futurama," as they receive nursing scholarships from Walter Thoeming, commander of American Legion Post No. 311.

ACTIVITIES Expand Into New



Quarters



Participation in extra-curricular activities teach lessons which cannot be taught in a classroom —basic principles of cooperation, leadership, and responsibility. Choosing from a long list of clubs and organizations, each student can find an activity suited to his taste and talents. With the encouragement of patient teachers and sponsors, even the shyest freshman soon finds this extra-curricular education is fun.

Students Govern

". . . government of the people, by the people, and for the people." It has been a long time since those famous words were first scratched on paper, but their principle still stands at Bloom.

The governing bodies at school are constantly working to give the students their share of democracy. They meet frequently to discuss and act upon ideas for improving Bloom life. Many such ideas have been adopted and are now a part of the school's laws and customs.

During the year student government inaugurated an exchange program between Shorewood High School in Wisconsin and Bloom, a successful pep club, identification cards, as well as other innovations.

Outstanding Students

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

One of the most coveted honors given to a Bloom student is membership in the National Honor Society. High grades are not the only essential for election. Extra-curricular activities also play a vital part in determining which students are accepted.

As the motto on the pin states, service, scholarship, leadership, and character are the qualities that a member of this society must possess. It is this honor, bestowed on the few, which means so much. Mrs. North is the sponsor of Bloom's chapter.

The deadlines are coming and busily the annual staff scrambles to meet them on time, in producing this year's theme, "blueprint for learning." Some are busily employed in writing and editing this sparkling copy while others happily attempt to cram big pictures on smaller pages without trimming off too many heads.

Seriously, the students pictured here have relinquished a valuable eighth hour study hall to the task of turning out this annual for Bloom. Our hardest workers were the co-editors Judy Nave and Bob Crowson who spent endless hours in attempts to meet the deadlines. Miss Betty House, sponsor, and Mr. Barton Herr and Mr. George Hamlin, each adept at prodding, supervise their work.

Deadlines! Deadlines! Deadlines! They're always only a short time away for the newspaper world, and the staff of the school paper, The Broadcaster, is no exception. The junior reporters work under practically the same conditions as their adult counterparts in getting the news and reporting it as they see it.

Every two weeks the staff must be ready with a paper that will hold the interest of its readers while presenting factual material.

The staff, advised by Miss House, puts out an award-winning paper.

For the second time the paper, through financial arrangements made by the Board of Education, was distributed free to each student bi-weekly.

Every Thursday afternoon a group of literary critics meets to give constructive ideas to The Tower, Bloom's yearly anthology, which contains original poetry and prose. Illustrated with photographs by students, The Tower reflects the best of the student's efforts in the writing field.

Besides providing practical editorial experience, The Tower gives promising authors their first chance to see their articles in print. Sponsored by Mr. Robert Gard, the staff under co-editors Betsy Cliver and Barbara Dudek reads and re-reads in order to select the best material for appearance in the magazine.

To the people who plan, edit, and bring the school publications into reality, initiation into the Quill and Scroll is an event to remember. Just as the National Honor Society is a recognition of scholastic achievement, membership in this group means the student has done outstanding work in the journalistic field.

To be eligible for membership, a person must be either a junior or senior, in the upper third of his class, and must be recommended by the local sponsor and the executive secretary of the society. This year, Miss House, as sponsor of the Bloom chapter initiated 20 new members, bringing the present membership to 28.

The Freshman Frolic, the bundle drive, the Spring tea, and a dozen other worthy activities are what distinguish the Girls' League as an important organization in the City of Bloom.

Surely few other groups play as large a role in the life of the school as this. Also a part of the Girls' League, the senior big sisters do a great deal to help the freshmen become acquainted with the school.

Credit for many of the League's activities goes to its sponsor, Miss Ora Theobald and Miss Eveline Callendar.

Each spring the members are rushed with orders for tickets to the regional basketball games. Their sponsor is Mr. Thomas.

Frantic traffic guides W. Wenzel, R. Burato, and D. McDiarmid give stiff arm to N. French, J. Utermark, and P. Menke.

The bell sounds. Push! Shove! It's one against a thousand, as hurrying Bloomites collide with the stalwart traffic guides. Several times a day, five days a week, the battle goes on without a letup.

Seeing that students use the "right" stairways and keep to the right in the halls is an important task of Bloom's traffic guides and one they carry out. The guides, together with Mr. C. Smith, keep Bloomites moving in the right direction.

Behind the sliding glass doors is a group of girls whose chief purpose is to provide Bloom students with source material for classroom projects. Filing and sorting through the card catalog and attending to library passes takes much of their time.

Helping in the library is a function which necessitates a knowledge of the Dewey decimal system and general library techniques. The practical experience gained by these Junior Librarians is valuable in future years.

G.Behrens, J. Beaty, and J. Bland assist librarians in running an efficient library.

Aids Administration

Office Monitors. Row 1: M. Kuras, J. Tilton, J. Cipriani, S. Sayton. Row 2: H. Kovel, M. Foushi, J. Anderson, C. Arnholtz, C. Schultz.

Paralleling each other in the work they do, the hostesses, office and attendance monitors carry on many of the activities necessary to keep the school running smoothly. Welcoming and guiding visitors is the service which the hostesses do for the school, while attendance monitors have the task of collecting the attendance every day during first, sixth and eighth hours.

Working closely with the attendance monitors, the office monitors take care of clerical and other jobs centering around the office, room 215.

All of these girls are a great help to the administration by their constant work in the interest of Bloom.

According to the nation's teachers, visual education should be a vital part of a school program. At Bloom, the different departments chose the films they would like to view, but it is the Projection Staff that brings the movies directly to the student.

The members of the staff devote much of their spare time to the task of ordering, scheduling, and cataloging the various films, in addition to operating tape recorders and other audio-visual equipment.

Besides the service to the school, the staff gains valuable experience which may be applied to future occupations.

Club Gets Photo Tips

S. Schindel, Mr. Tory, R. Carrier, D. Cooper, Mr. Hineline, B. Bowman, Treas.

L. Holman, S. Barren, M. Dorinson, B. Frazier, Pres.; S. Brown, M. Wagner.

A. Bieronski, Sec.; J. Letke, R. Kramer, R. Carrier, L. Berman.

Snapping and cropping pictures, these Photo Club members work with all the phases of photography. In room 118 the actual developing and printing of the pictures is done. Under the direction of Mr. Hineline, the club provides students with a practical outlet for excess energy. A yearly exhibit of prize winning photographs from the U. S. A. is held and the aspiring photographers are able to learn what it is that makes a picture really good. Some of the candids used in this book have been supplied by several Photo Club members. Mr. Hineline is assisted by Mr. Tory.

The United Nations Club, like the United Nations Organization, is built on the idea of maintaining good relations among the countries of the world. Closely related, the Human Relations Committee tries to work out problems between people of different races and creeds by means of frequent discussions at the homes of members.

Both groups were organized at Bloom in order to influence the students in thinking about and acting upon these ideals. They do this by promoting practical applications of democracy.

One of the U. N. Club's activities was the presentation of an assembly in which the flags and customs of various countries were depicted. The Human Relations Committee attended conferences which gave its members a chance to exchange ideas with students from other schools.

Lettermen Back Teams

For boys who excell in sports, the Lettermen's Club is a worthy extracurricular activity. To be in this group, a boy must have earned a letter in some sport and be willing to work, for it really is a task to arrange all the seating at home games so that there will be as little confusion as possible in the gym.

This job is usually taken care of in a meeting after school the day of the game. Planning at this session is supervised by the sponsor, Mr. Jacobeit.

Whether or not Latin is a dead language is a subject that is and always has been debatable, but as far as the Latin Clubs are concerned, there's life in the old language yet. Just to prove it, the members spend two afternoons a month with activities and plays about Latin and Romans.

This year the clubs are divided into three groups, the beginning, advanced, and mixed. This is something new for until this year two clubs were plenty, but with so many Latin students, the demand was greater than the supply.

Besides their regular meetings, the students, under the direction of Miss Gioannini, Miss Keoughan, and Mr. Calacci, hold an annual Latin banquet which is usually a reproduction of a Roman festival, down to the chariots and togas.

Resplendent in sombreros and serapes are the members of the Spanish Club, Los Companeros. The combination of parties with informative games and discussion periods on Spanish life, language, and customs, helps the members to gain a rich background.

Spanish Club is one of the main participants in the language clubs' Christmas party. Each club is responsible for a part in the program. Mrs. Murray is the sponsor of this group.

Many students, desiring to learn a language rich in legend and romance, find French or German a likely subject for them. Of these, a good many spend at least some of their free time pursuing the language in either the French or German club.

Under the direction of Miss Sawyer, the clubs study such things as the customs of inhabitants of these countries, their history, the holidays they observe, and, of course, the language itself. The French and German clubs have proved a great encouragement to students thinking of taking languages and are an outlet for those who wish to do more than just go to their classes each day.

Players Set Stage

Anyone interested in the art of acting finds the Drama Club an exciting activity in which he can learn and do at the same time. As part of its schedule the club annually presents a Christmas play for the school.

While taking part in plays of their own, the members also make a journey to Chicago each year in order to take a close look at a professional presentation. The club is under the sponsorship of Miss Leitha Paulsen.

Bloom's aspiring "after-dinner speakers" get their practice in the Speech Activities Association. Members of the club are devoted to bettering their speaking ability.

A practical method that is used to improve their techniques is a tape recorder. Thus they are able to find out exactly how their voices sound to an audience. They also work with radio plays, essays, and readings. This group is sponsored by Mrs. North and Mr. Thomas.

The club participates in speech contests held at other schools. This year David Cohler, a senior member of the speech group, won first place in the state Voice of Democracy Contest sponsored by the JayCees and first place in the Illinois American Legion Oratorical Contest.

A close associate of the Radio Club and one that serves the school is the group known as the 6L6. These boys, with their knowledge of the mechanical, are responsible for all the messages heard over the loudspeaker system.

"C. Q., C. Q.—calling all radio operators." That's the cry of one of the favorite extra-curricular groups, the Radio Club. These "Hams" as they are known to most students, hold their meetings once every week after school. Many of them hold amateur licenses and spend hours talking to kindred spirits in all sections of the country. The call number of Bloom's station is W9PEM. Both groups are sponsored by Mr. Dale Lawton.

Students Check Game

"Check! Checkmate!" These words are familiar to the members of the Chess Club. Such technical-sounding terms are uttered in moments of deep concentration as students practice their games.

The chief purpose of the organization is to teach the student the ancient, but nevertheless popular, game of chess. An essential in successful playing is not an exceptionally high I.Q., but rather the ability to plan ahead. Under the leadership of Mr. Hogan, the club participates in matches with other schools.

Board Swings Into Action

This group of Bloom students helps to provide entertainment from 9 to 12 after every interscholastic athletic event. The requirements for a good time are a head swollen with pride in the team's showing and a wish to meet that special guy or gal. Supplementary requirements are a good band and lots of soft drinks.

The board arranges for chaperones and bands, while formulating the Morgue's policy.

Once a month during long homeroom the senior girls who call themselves Sharp Teen-Age Coeds meet in groups in order to broaden their experiences as high school girls socially and vocationally.

Having over 150 members the girls meet in eight different groups headed by a sponsor and chairman. A high light of the year was the Peporama, during which the girls put on an organized cheer. A father-daughter hop was also planned.

Miss Herr and Miss Pendleton, counselors, headed the committee of eight sponsors. Sharp Tacs was reorganized this year by popular student request.

Boys who are enrolled in vocational agriculture wear bright blue jackets to signify their membership in the Future Farmers of America.

This organization's motto is to develop character, cooperation, and love of farm life. Methods of better farming are studied by discussion programs and attendance at fairs and stock shows. Under the leadership of Mr. Mayhew, the club introduces the student to the science of agriculture.

Today any discussion of the field of agriculture could be subdivided into many side topics such as insect control and new methods of plowing, as well as the studies of new disease resisting plants. This group attempts to bring all the fields of agriculture into the realm of the students' interest.

PEP CLUB

Cheering has always been spirited at Bloom games, but this year it has had an added pick-up. For the first time a group has been organized for the sole purpose of urging the teams on to victory. This organization is known as the Pep Club.

Every member is expected to attend all league basketball and football games, dressed in white and ready to cheer. Composed entirely of girls, the club, sponsored by Mr. Calacci, has a growing membership along with a growing popularity among sports-minded students.

America's teachers are dedicated to enlightening our country's youth. Future Teachers of America is a nation-wide organization with a local chapter at Bloom where students who are seriously considering teaching as profession can receive inspiration.

Together with Miss P. Douglas, sponsor, the club plans trips, parties, talks, and projects, all pointing toward teaching as a career.

Each year the American Association of University Women invites the members of the area to a coke party where the benefits and improvements of teaching are discussed.

FUTURE NURSES

The Future Nurses Club gives girls interested in nursing a preview of the pleasures and problems of their intended profession. Since there are so many phases of nursing from which to choose and so many requirements to meet, the club frequently invites a speaker to give members an insight into the possible future applications of their interest in nursing. Under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Crane, educational films and field trips throughout the school year further help the girls in plans for the future.

Although not able to perform services on as wide a scale as the adult organization, the Bloom chapter of the American Junior Red Cross does help as much as it can. By readying such things as handmade Christmas cards and sock dolls for the unfortunate, they put their youth and vitality to a good cause. Together with Miss E. Kelly, the club has accomplished many worth while projects.

In the past, the group has been responsible for sending food packets to the needy, knitting clothes for the poor, making tray mats and favors for hospitalized veterans, and preparing toys for crippled children.

There are more serious music-lovers than one might think these days as proved by the success of any event featuring the orchestra. This group is not completely classical, but it does stay close to what can be called "good music." Members meet every day with their conductor, Mr. Hippensteel. Here their future musical activities are planned and practiced to perfection.

The results of this work are displayed each year in such events as the music festival, Christmas vespers, and various music assemblies performed for the school.

Ask most students what school organization brings them the most pleasure, and it's a good bet that many will answer in favor of the band. It's really no wonder that this feeling is a prevalent one in the school. Under the direction of Mr. Einar Cannelin, they fall into intricate formations at half-time.

What else can seem to generate as much school spirit as a lively band number. Whether at an assembly or any other event the band is a favorite with the students.

The A Cappella Choir is perhaps the most professional and surely the most popular of Bloom's vocal groups. Belonging to this organization is an honor which is hoped for by all vocal students.

Beside singing in assembly programs, the choir also performs at other schools and on numerous occasions of importance. Among these are the Christmas Vespers and the Spring Festival.

The choir, which is made up of juniors and seniors who have previously been in other music groups, is under the direction of Miss Jean Pavy. Being such a versatile choir, they are capable of singing light popular music or presenting classical music in professional sounding tones.

One of the main recruiting stations for the A Cappella Choir and an outstanding vocal group in itself, is the Girls' Choir. With the same director, Miss Jean Pavy, the girls meet during the day to vocalize. They perform at all the customary festive occasions and lend an important note to the musical ranks of Bloom.

Of all the groups at the school which are made up mostly of girls, the Girls' Choir is one of the busiest and most talented.

Glee Clubs Give

Bloom's tremendous interest in music is shown in its Girls' Glee Club. So many young vocalists signed up that two separate classes were required to accommodate them.

Their musical efforts run from semi-popular to classical or perhaps musical comedy. Most of the girls hope to become a part of Bloom's more advanced choirs, so they spend time seriously working on sight reading and vocal exercises. Both groups are directed by Mr. Hippensteel.

Musical Background

With so many fine girls' vocal groups at Bloom, the Boys' Glee Clubs, both Freshman and Sophomore, must work hard to prove that singing is enjoyed not only by girls, but by everyone.

Meeting three times a week are the Sophomore boys, with the Freshman meeting twice. Both groups exercise their voices with show tunes, spirituals, and other favorites.

Their constant practicing is rewarded each year by performances at grade schools and at school functions.

Freshmen Provide

Bringing the pleasures of music to the ears of Bloomites is a task which is attacked diligently and with eagerness by the members of the Freshman Chorus. Meeting twice a week, these freshman girls harmonize for many musical assemblies and the spring music festival.

They Lead the Band

MAJORETTES

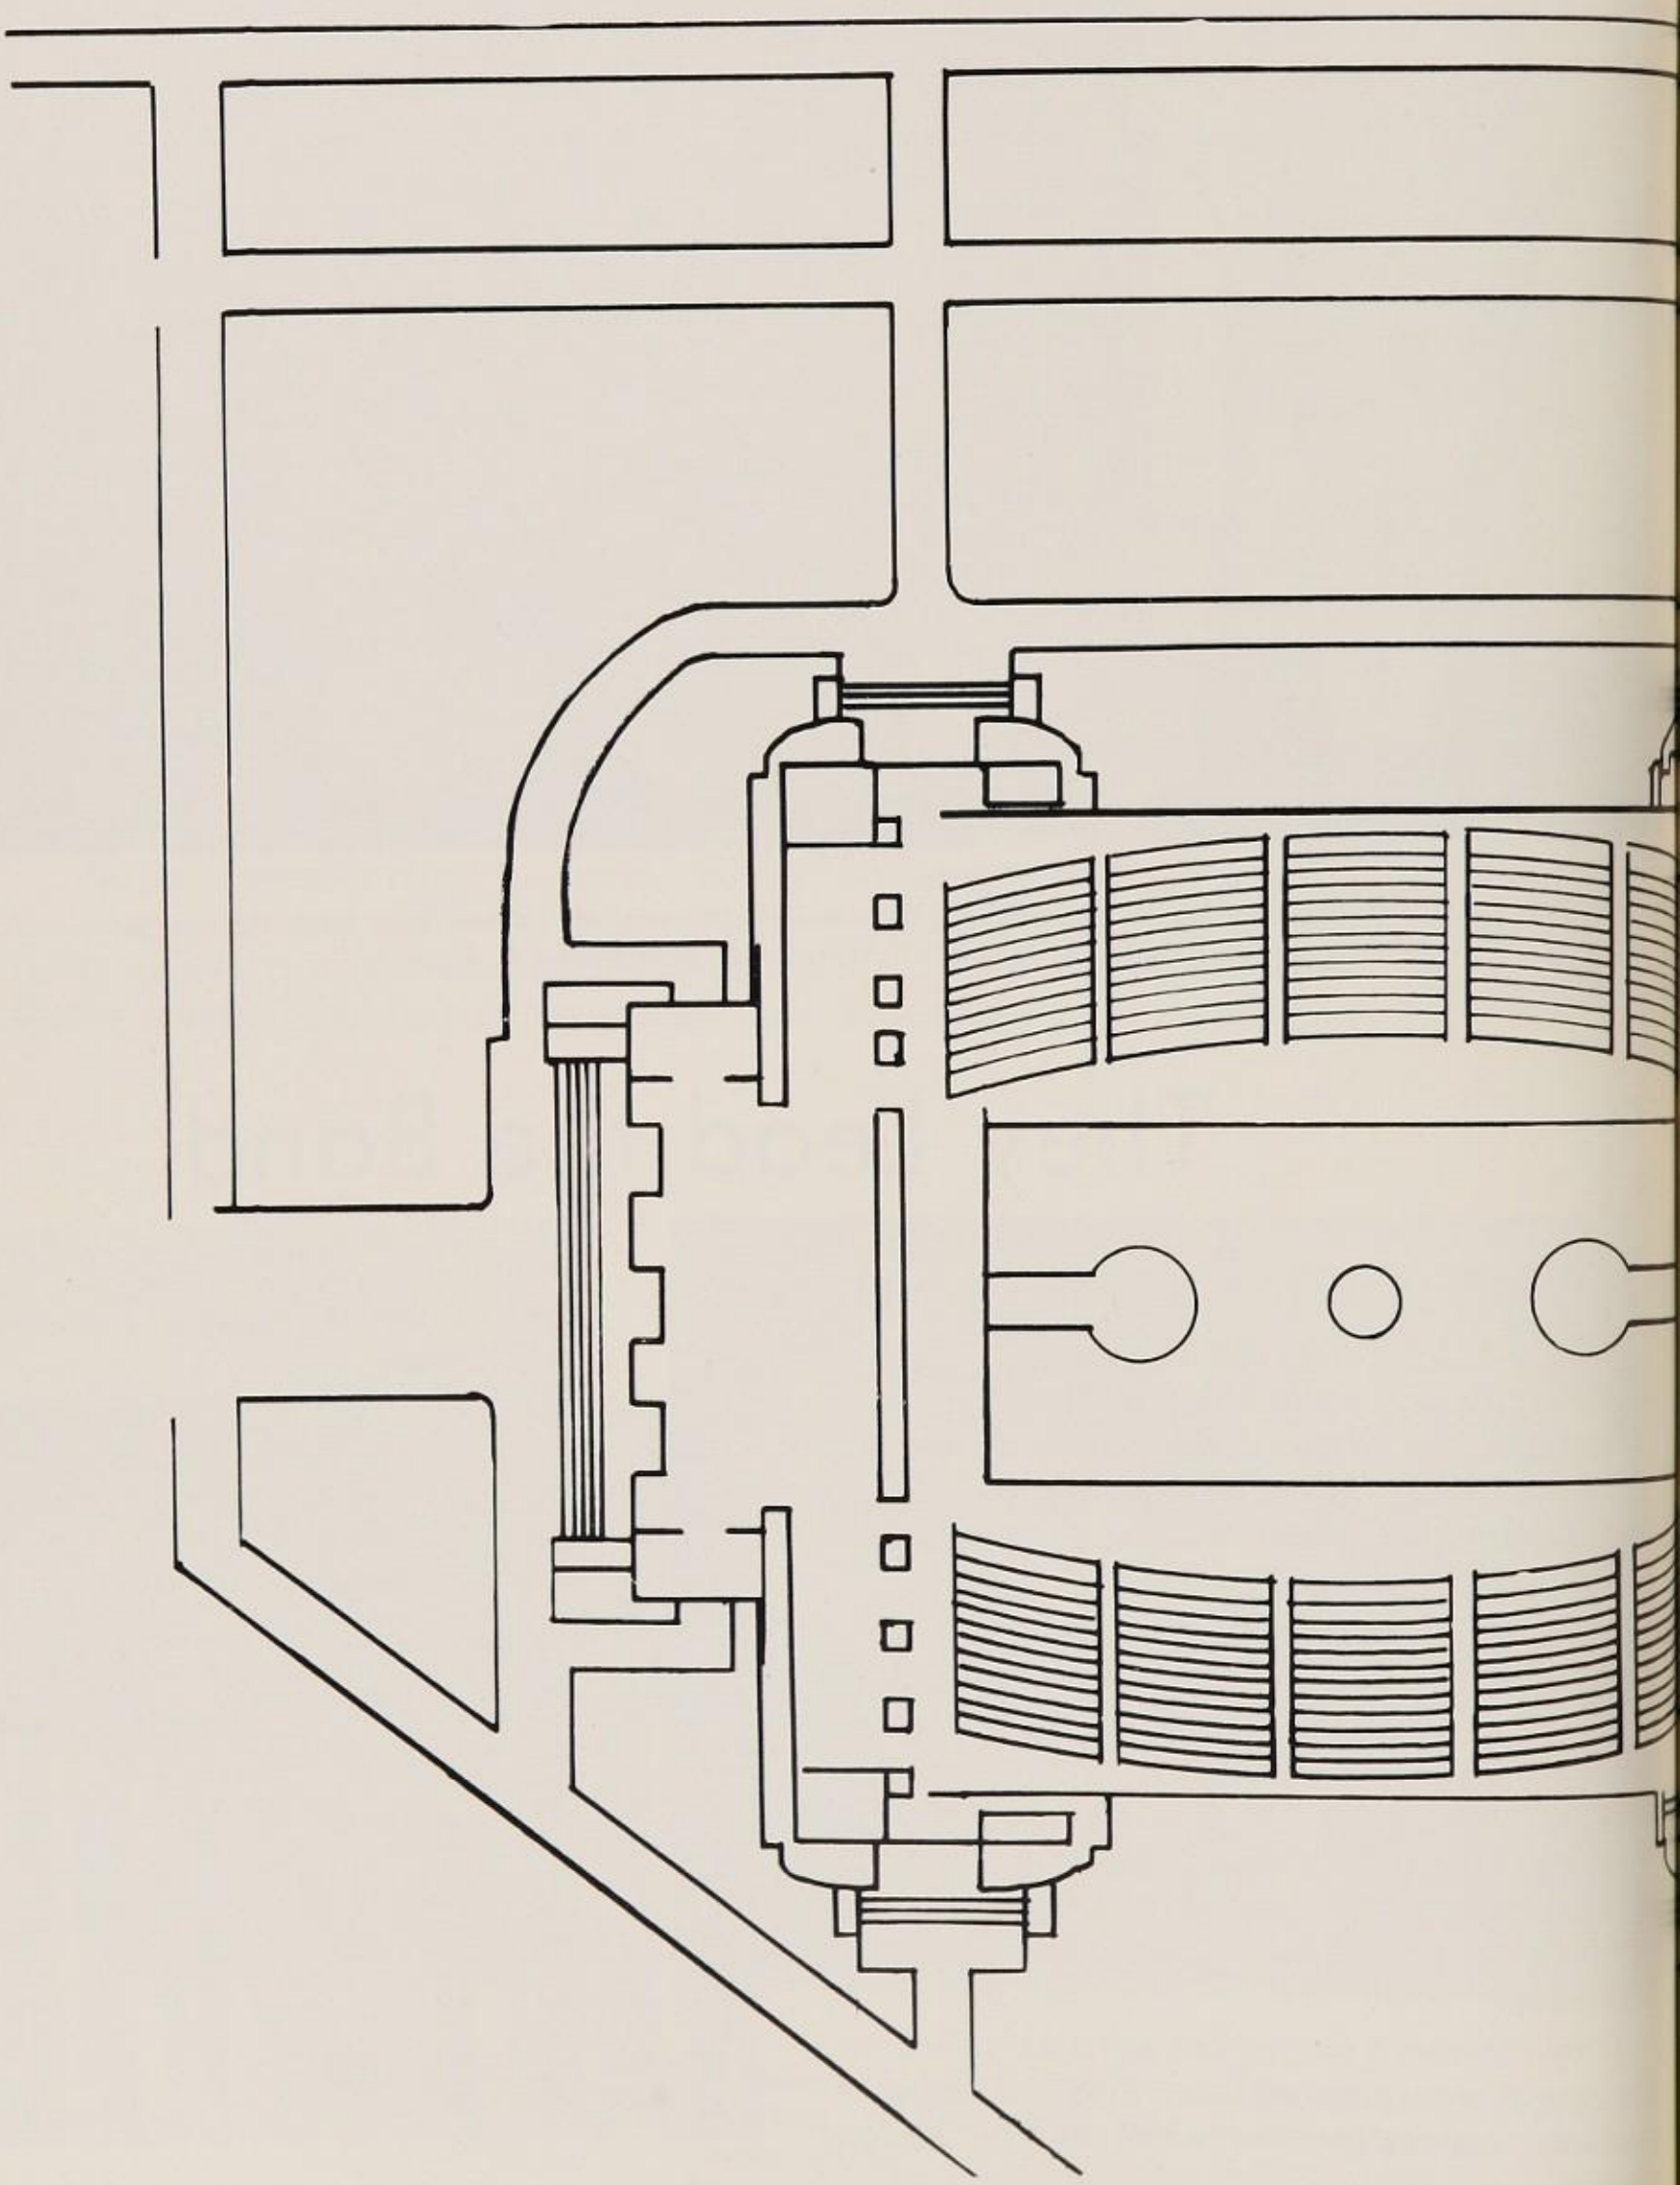
Often marching down the football field in hip deep snow, the majorettes strut around the field in order that our spirits may be kept alive. What the students see is the finished product of long hours of practice with the band.

Besides the football games, these "galavantin' gals" are present at all of our other home games and pep assemblies. The line of blue and white creates a sense of excitement by throwing their twirling batons high into the air and almost always catching them on the way down. Though they perform together during the football season, the majorettes take turns doing solos while the teams rest.

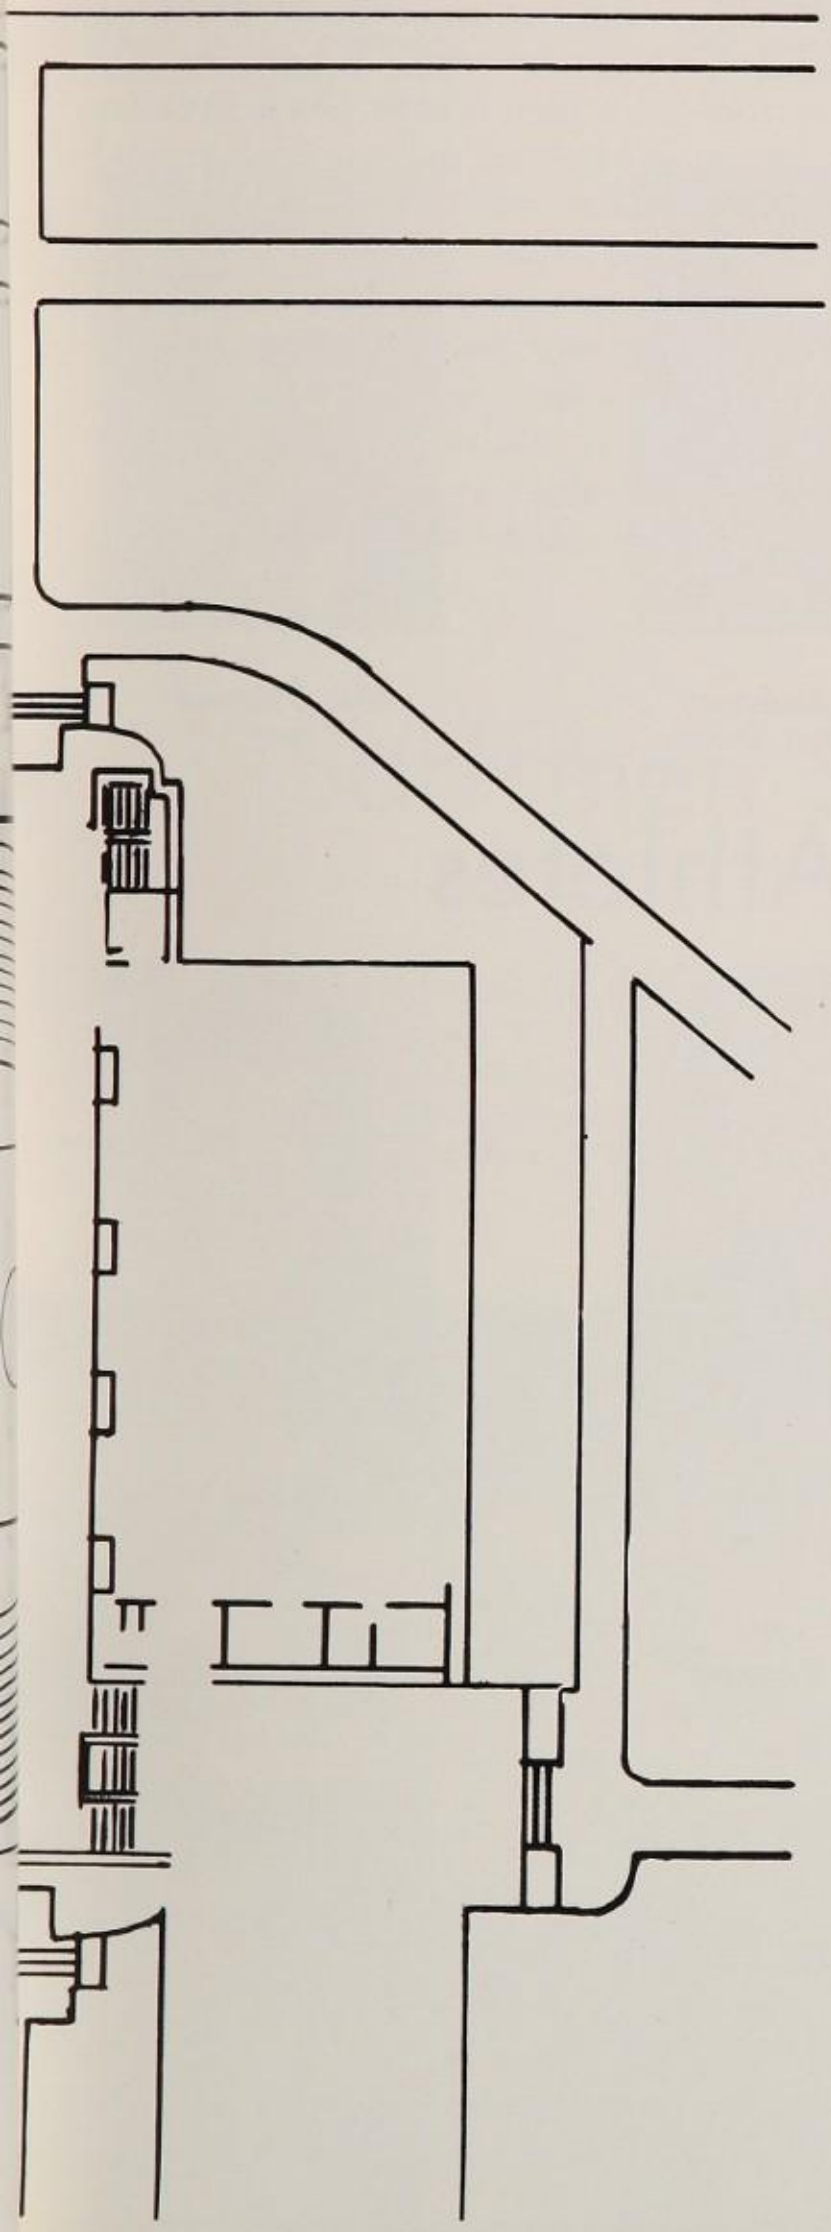
They represent our school spirit all rolled into one group, for they perform with the same enthusiasm no matter the score of the athletic contest.

M. Schmidt, N. Nylander, J. Notarnicola, M. Niblock.

SPORTS Develop Character and



School Spirit



"We're from Bloom and couldn't be prouder!" cried the throngs of loyal Bloomites who weekly spurred the teams on to greater efforts. Never lacking in school spirit and determination, the Trojans continued to uphold the fine traditions of competition and sportsmanship characteristic of the athletes and students of BTHS.

A loss to the Thornton Wildkats was the only thing that kept the Trojans from winning their first South Suburban conference championship in six years. They ended the season with an overall record of seven wins and two losses. A strong Evanston team caught the Trojans when they weren't quite ready and handed them a 34-0 defeat.

Claiming the fastest backfield in the state, Bloom won the next four games, three of these being conference wins, and the other a win against East Aurora.

After the Thornton loss the Trojans won the three remaining games to end with a six wins and one loss conference record, good enough for second place.

Leroy Jackson and Jim McDonnell were named to the All South Suburban team at backfield positions and Norman Mack was named as a guard. Bob Seeley and Willy Edwards received special mention on this team.

McDonnell, Trojan captain, tied Paul Jackson of Thornton for the individual scoring crown with 63 points. This was eight points more than "Mac's" total of 55 points in 1955 when he led the league in scoring.

Victorious for its second year in a row, the Frosh-Soph gridders ended their season with an eight win and one loss record. After dropping the opener to Evanston, the Little Trojans rebounded to win the remaining games and stood undefeated in conference play.

While the Trojans piled up a total of 189, they held their opponents to a meager 76 points. Outstanding performers were fullback Ray DeLuca, who led the scoring column with 43 points; halfbacks Morris Murphy and John Foushi, who had 30 and 25 points, respectively; and quarterback Jerry Vickery with 42 points. Bolstering the line on offense were George DeFrancisco, Lonnie Pangburn, Jerry McCormick, Lorenzo Guest, and Ray Mondschein. Defensive standouts were Ron Barbizzi, John Hogeveen, Stan Dominic, Jack Dunning, and Dave Long.

Under the coaching of Mr. Colbrese, the Little Trojans compiled a rushing average of 157 yards per game and 18 yards per game in the air. They limited their opponents to a total of 164 yards per game in the air and on the ground. Mr. Colbrese was assisted by Mr. Krumm and Mr. Thomas

Despite the fact that Bloom's tiniest gridders, the Freshman football team, dropped their final game to Thornton, they still captured their conference crown. This loss snapped a 15-game winning streak started in 1954 and carried through 1955 when Coach Frank Buchtel's Freshmen were unscored upon.

Coaches Bob Castater, Art Tenney, and Lou Bizza assisted Frank Buchtel as the team ended their five-game schedule with four wins and one defeat.

A high light of the season was Larry Craven's place kick of an extra point against Argo, a feat rarely seen in Freshman football.

Sparking the offense were George Mulderink, Rich Edelman, Don Wykis, Fred Genzler, Paul Aschfort and Dick Reese. Defensive standouts were Paul Morton, Gene Harris, Pete Sierra, and Bob Cokely.

This year's season was climaxed with a Blue and White game in which the entire squad was equally divided, and all team members were given a chance to participate.

Kennedy Is Lone Trojan Downstate

Coach Ralph Steben's cross-country team ended the season with six wins and two losses in dual and triangular meet competition. Only La Grange and Glenbard were able to top the Trojans.

Paced by Chico Kennedy, the harriers placed second behind Englewood in a field of eight teams in their own invitational. Kennedy was always the first man to score for the Trojans.

The cindermen failed to qualify for the state meet when they placed third at the district. Kennedy, who had the third best time at the district, finished seventeenth in the state meet at Champaign.

Prospects for a winning season next fall are bright because of the large number of returning lettermen. Topping this list are Ben Thomas, John Ross, Gerald Pitts, Larry Geron, Ed West, Charles Thomas, Lynn Griffen, and Chico Kennedy.

Frosh-Soph cross-country had a somewhat less glittering season, splitting their six meets, three wins and three losses.

Interest in cross-country has been steadily growing during the past few years and has now placed the sport in the category of a major activity at Bloom.

Trojans Rule South Suburban

For the past two years the newly organized Hinsdale Super-Sectional has been a thorn in the side of Bloom's Varsity basketball team. In 1956 the Trojans came within five points of Oak Park, who later won the fourth-place trophy in the state finals. This year the fifth-rated Trojans met defeat at the hands of top-rated Elgin in the tournament's most exciting game.

Bloom's record book was rewritten by this group of Sweet Sixteen hoopsters. Jerry Colangelo set a new individual scoring record of 35 points against North Chicago. In the Sectional game against St. Patrick the game record of 87 was smashed by a new high of 96. More games were won this season than in any previous year, 27, while only two defeats were suffered.

The Trojans had three factors on their side this year. Experience, ability, and depth. This rare combination is the dream of all coaches, the realization of few. Bloom had it.

Bobby Bell, Jerry Colangelo, Paul Goebel, Bobby Thompson, and Bob Duncan, seniors; Chuck Green, junior; Homer Thurman, sophomore; and Bert Moore and his assistant, Nick Colbrese, coaches, are nine of the most important reasons for Bloom's success.

Undisputed South Suburban, Regional, and Sectional champions, the Trojans won 27 and lost only two. A new high of 1839 points was scored to better all previous Bloom scoring records.

Frosh-Soph Cagers Share

The 1956-57 version of the Frosh-Soph basketball team will have to be content with half of the conference crown because of one point. Going into the last game of the season, the little Trojans led the league by one game, with Thornton in second place. The contest proved the Wildcats to be the better team by a score of 54 to 53.

Other defeats were administered by Joliet, East Aurora, Rich, and Lockport, the latter being the only other conference loss.

Under Coach Bob Rehberg and assisted by Richard Jensen, the Trojans compiled an over-all record of 17 wins and 5 defeats, while their conference record was 12 and 2.

Leading scorers of the squad were Howard Perkins and Jerry Vickery. Other mainstays were Roger Elliot, Gerry Vickery, Dennis Pignotti, Bill Woislaw, Dennis Brislen, Dennis Benning, and Ken Connor.

Combined with this year's strong junior varsity squad, these sophomores should provide Bloom with a varsity to be proud of in future seasons.

Coached by Fred Jacobeit and Merle Zeshke, this year's Freshman basketball team had a record performance. The tiniest Trojans ended their 1956-57 season with an overall record of 13 wins and 5 losses, while they copped the conference crown with a 10 and 2 record.

The only two conference defeats were at the hands of Bloom's perennial rival, Thornton. Both were by a 2 point margin, the first 38 to 36, and the second 33 to 31. The other three losses were inflicted by Joliet, Reavis, and Bradley.

High scorers for the Freshmen were Sam Mele, Zeke Corbin, and Bill Hunter, while other standouts were Dan Maga, Dick Reese, Jerry Washington, and Tony Zona.

At the sectional meet the Trojans placed fifth and at the state meet Bob Seely and Norm Mack scored 9 points to finish 22nd. As Norm Mack, Homer Dillard, Dave Gasbarro, Pete Resedean, Dan Williams, and Emil Squeteri are the only graduating lettermen, prospects for a good season in 1958 are bright.

Although the Frosh-Soph track team played second fiddle to a State Champion varsity squad, they put in a fine showing. Suffering their only defeat in five dual meets at the hands of Leyden, the little cindermen won their own triangular meet and placed second in the conference.

Sophomores Leroy Jackson and Bob Boling competed in varsity meets as did Freshmen Ron Barbizzi and Homer Thurman. Ed West, L. C. Sledge, Larry Clark, Harry Fisher, Bruce Frobes, Ben Thomas and Larry Geron were consistent point winners.

This Frosh-Soph team will form the nucleus of the varsity squad in 1958.

Coached by Fred Jacobeit and assisted by Alex Feldvebel, the 1956 Varsity baseball team won nine of their fourteen encounters. After compiling a conference standing of four wins and three losses, the Trojans tromped over Bradley, Kankakee, and Bremen to win the District championship. Another highlight of the season was the defeat of Bloom's southern rival, Rich.

The Trojan's lone representative on the all-conference team was Chico Kennedy, sophomore left fielder, who batted about .500 during season competition.

Returning for the ten game plus tournament 1957 campaign were 17 lettermen. Candidating for starting berths in the outfield were John Rice, Chico Kennedy, Tom Canneck, Fred Ruge, Bob Duncan, and Bob Hildeman. Infielders included Jack Barton, Rich DeMith, Fred Mascitti, Bob DeBolt, Don Lauer, Dave Leahy, and Bob Shultz. Bob Bennet and Authur Peters worked behind the plate, while Jerry Colangelo and Jim Bouton saw action on the mound. Also adding to the strength of the spikemen were Chuck Green, Bob Maxwell, Bob Seely, Tom Pellegrino, Paul Clarey, Bill Reynolds, and Jim Hunter, graduates of the Frosh-Soph squad.

Bob Austin tees off

In the 1956 season the Trojan linkmen won all but two of their 15 meets. The golfers got off to a strong start winning eleven straight games. Thornton fell twice in this streak.

The squad reached its peak as it really whitewashed Fractional and Kankakee 14-1 and 13-2, respectively. After a slump when they lost two straight games, the linkmen snapped back to win the remaining three, topping Fractional, Kankakee, and Lockport, each for the second time during the season.

The outlook for the '57 season looks bright with returning letterman Bob Austin and Ed Menke to bolster Coach John Prombo's team.

Sports' Activities in Girls' Gym Take Feminine Pace

The sports activities held in the girls' gym took a more feminine pace each period of the day. Channeling the enthusiasm of the gals into skill-building routines, Miss Liela Veazey, department head; Miss Helen Becker, Miss Judy Connolly, Miss Nancy Gravelot, and Miss Roxie Witts taught the girls the basic fundamentals of numerous sports.

Many girls took part in the varied extra-curricular sports program offered at Bloom by the G.A.A. The organization's purpose of promoting good sportsmanship, clean living and lasting friendships was well achieved and practiced by all who attended meetings after school. Members participated in bowling tournaments, the G.A.A. Play Day, and the Christmas party. The girls also provided the Christmas tree located in the main hallway during the pre-holiday season.

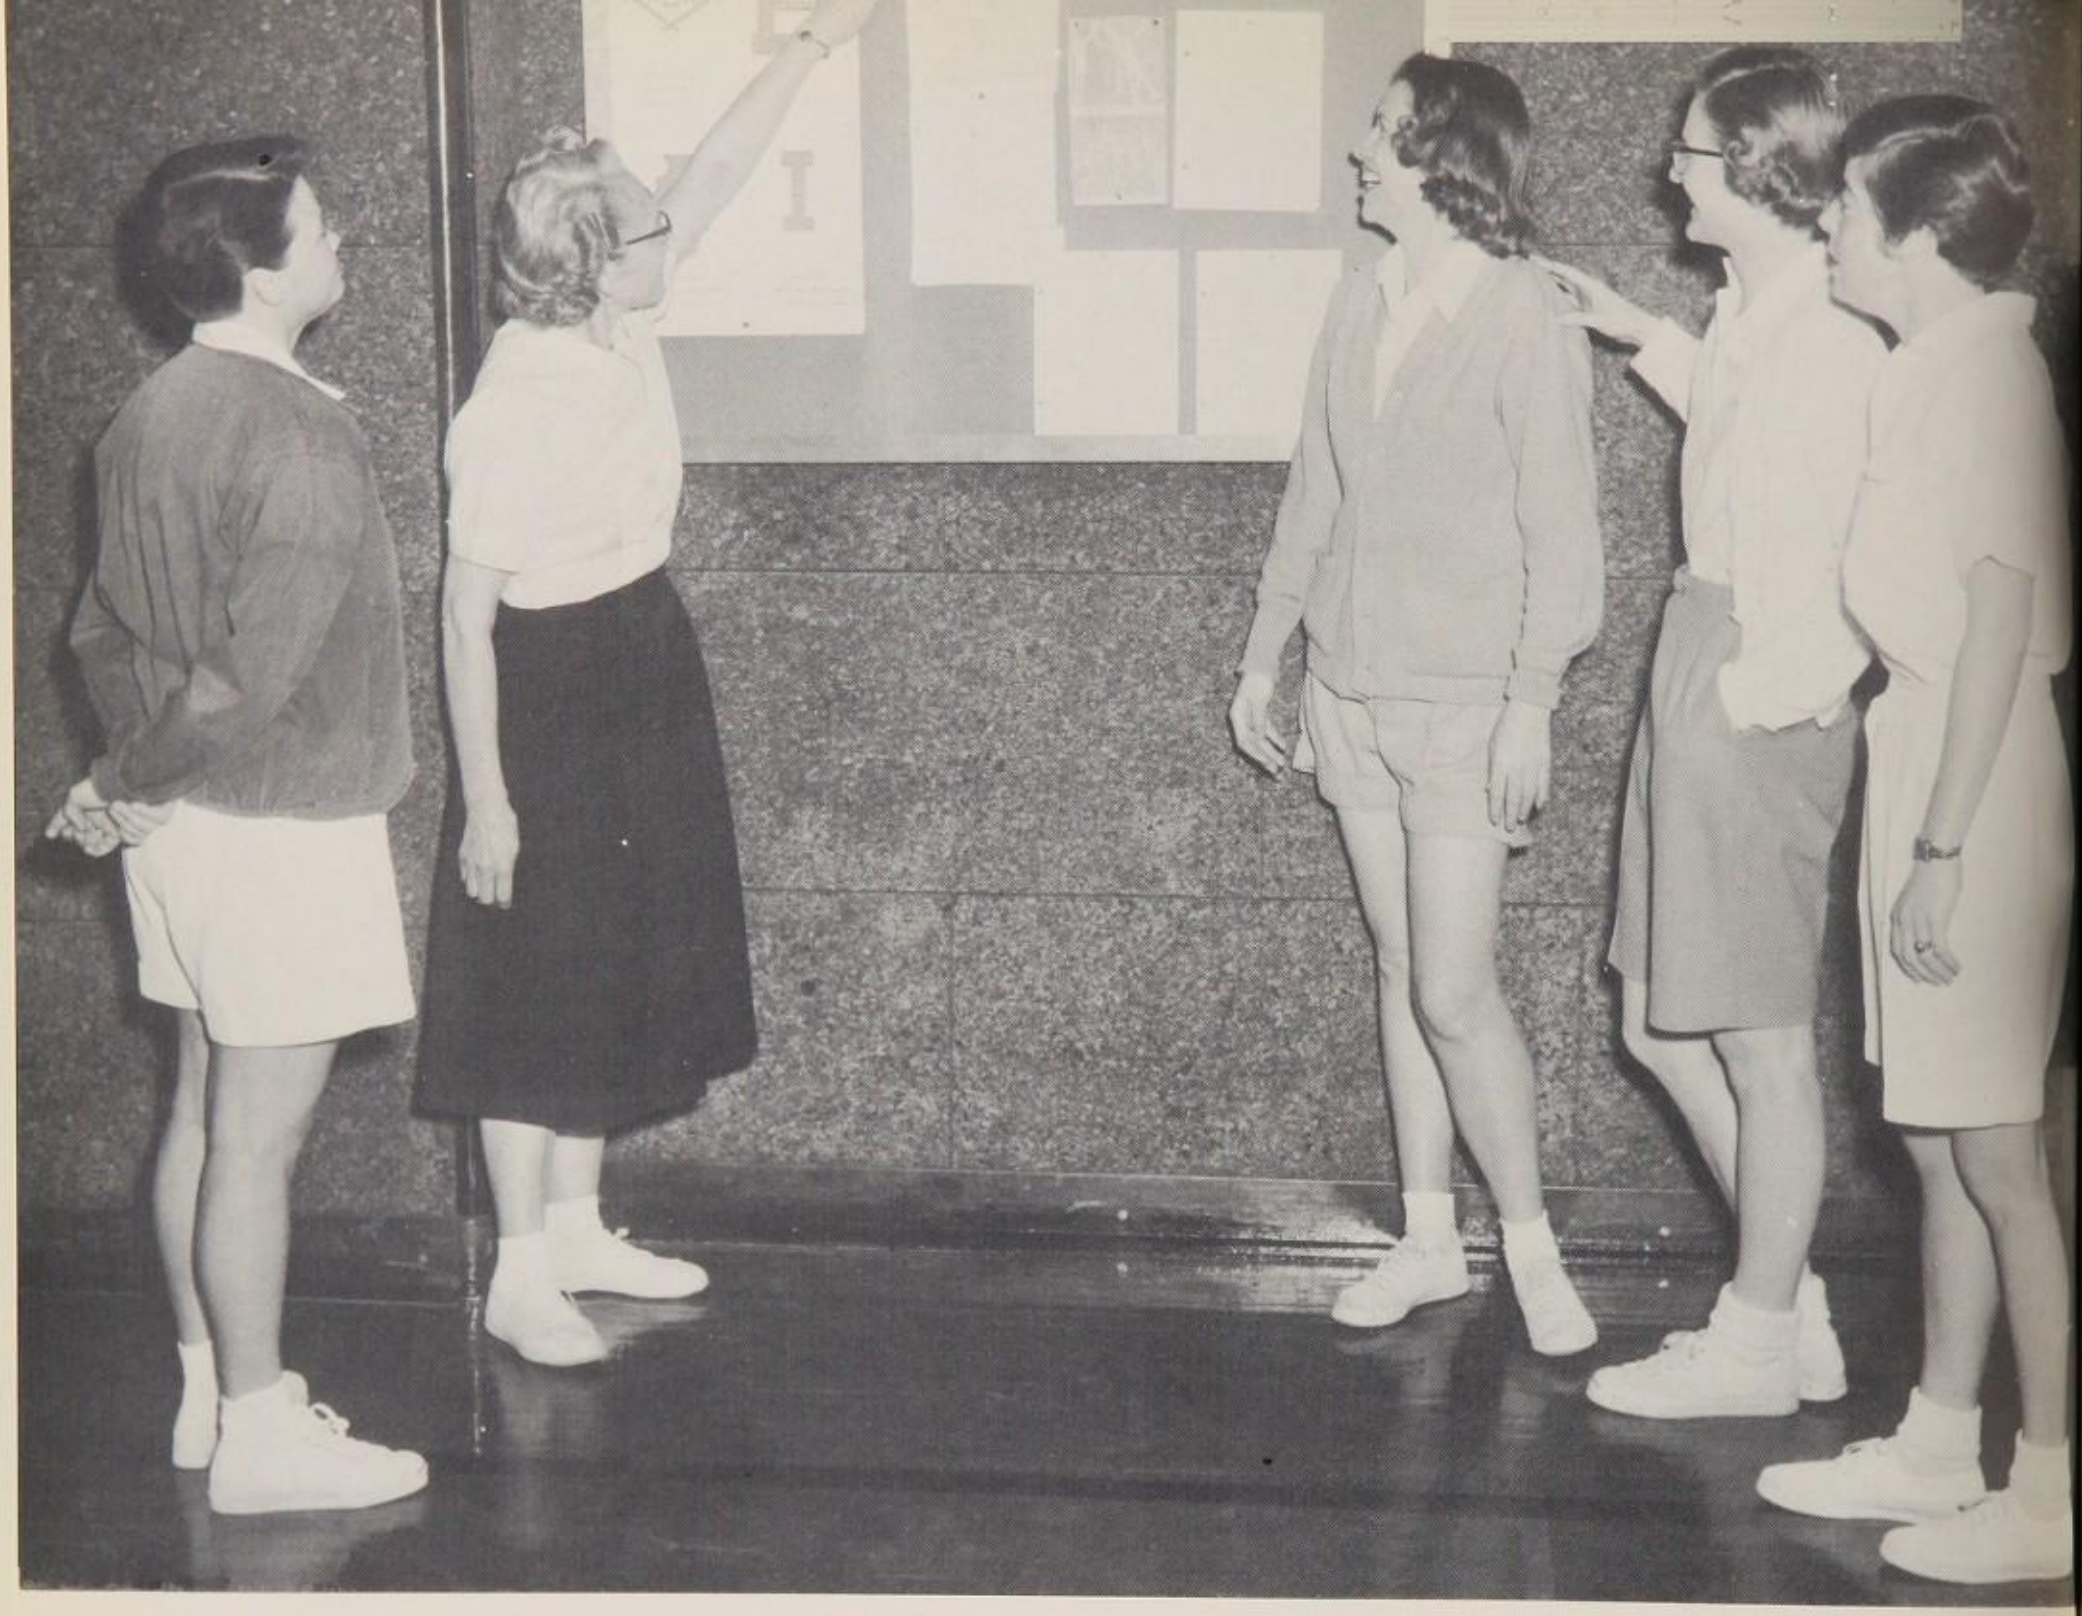
Cheerleaders Brighten Sports Scene

"We've got to win! We've got to win! Let's go!" These familiar cries belong to the cheerleaders, whose fast footwork, smiling faces, and snappy cheers sparked the students' enthusiasm. Present at all games, the blue and white clad girls certainly brightened the sports scene. Cheering at the pep assemblies, this energetic group boosted the school's spirit and played an important role in keeping the teams on the victory track.

Coached by Miss Liela Veazey and captained by Virginia Willis, the gals shared the pride of being one of the finest cheerleading squads in this area. The gratitude of the whole school goes to Miss Veazey, and these girls for their devotion and hard work.

Diane Jendresek shouts encouragement to the football team while other squad members are absorbed in chatter about the action on the field.



Miss Liela Veazey, head of the girls' physical education department, points to a notice on the bulletin board as staff members Miss Judith Connolly, Miss Roxie Witts, Miss Helen Becker and Miss Nancy Gravelot look on.

Staff Seeks Recreation For Feminine Population

The girls' gym teachers had the responsibility of seeing that Bloom's feminine population received the amount of exercise necessary for its health and well-being. The staff sought to provide this recreation through many skill-building sports. It looked forward to the completion of the new gymnasium and the fieldhouse, which would ease crowded conditions and make more space and time available for the physical education classes.

The department was under the direction of Miss Liela Veazey, who has been a member of the faculty for a number of years. Miss Veazey had charge of restricted and remedial gym classes. In addition to this she was one of the sponsors of G.A.A., acted as sponsor of the cheerleaders and coached the archery team.

Spending their second years at Bloom were Miss Judith Connolly and Miss Helen Becker. Miss Connolly's after school duties were connected with the G.A.A. and the bowling club, while Miss Becker's were the G.A.A. and the golf club.

The department welcomed two new teachers, Miss Roxie Witts and Miss Nancy Gravelot, who completed Bloom's fine staff.

"Try it once more. You're showing great improvement." These encouraging words echoing through the gym belong to the class helpers. The junior and senior girls who were willing to devote their study hall hours in order to make games and exercises more enjoyable were selected by the department for their ability and interest in physical education. They helped keep the girls' gym classes running smoothly by assisting the teachers, taking roll, and keeping scores.

The scene of this numerical dialogue is neither math class nor tabulating office. It is the basket room of the girls' gym. In response to the cries of these numbers, hard-working basket room girls fetch the "woven-wires" which are used by the girls' physical education students.

The basket room staff is under the supervision of Miss Liela Veazey. These girls gave up their study hall periods in order to serve the gym students. Outside of taking care of gym baskets, they checked valuables and assisted the GAA members after school.

Archers Aim At Seventh Crown

With a resounding "Twang!" the arrow leaves the bow and speeds to the target.

"Bull's-eye!" cry the members of the girls' archery team.

Yes, it's another 9-pointer for the hard working female William Tells. The team members, among the best archery students from the physical education classes, practiced diligently before and during the archery season to improve their scores, and to prepare themselves for the state meet.

As a class activity the girls worked toward the goal of seeing their names inked on an archery poster. To do this it was necessary to obtain a score of 100 or 90 points for junior and senior class levels, respectively.

Miss Liela Veazey, team coach of the most popular girls' sport offered at Bloom, was largely responsible for the success of her victorious team which has copped the Illinois State Postal Archery Tournament six consecutive years.

Bowling Queens Hit King Pins

Gloria Stanfa, Connie Greer, and Judy Mitchell approach the foul line with eyes focused on their goal.

"Not another gutter ball!" groaned a Senior G.A.A. member of the girls' Bowling Club, who by the trial and error method, was learning that the gutter was not the place for the ball. Meeting at the Bowl-Aire lanes with Miss Judith Connolly, instructor, these girls found excitement, competition and personal satisfaction from high scores and general improvement.

A team of eight entered the G.A.A. Postal Bowling Tournament, placing seventh out of 64 teams. Bloom concluded with a score of 1988 rolled by Joan Ohrt, 443; Carol Zeman, 421; Gloria Stanfa, 394; Judy Mitchell, 371; and Connie Green, 369. Others were Judy Sund, Sue McPherson, and Connie Alexander.

Golfers Take Healthy Swing

Row 1: N. Nylander, S. Nordburg, P. Wark, K. Sippel. Row 2: B. Olson, J. Moellering, M. Kiddoo, S. Waldruff, B. Beckett.

Daily practice produces two excellent golfers, Sandra Waldruff and Martha Kiddoo.

Every Wednesday those who belonged to the Girls' Golf Club met at Cherry Hills Country Club to polish up on the game's techniques.

The newly formed club was supported by enthusiastic girls who sought improvement in sport and entertainment. The members found competition among themselves and also hoped to match their skill with girls of other schools.

Results of the day's practice were reported to Miss Helen Becker, instructor, who was willing to help the girls better their game.

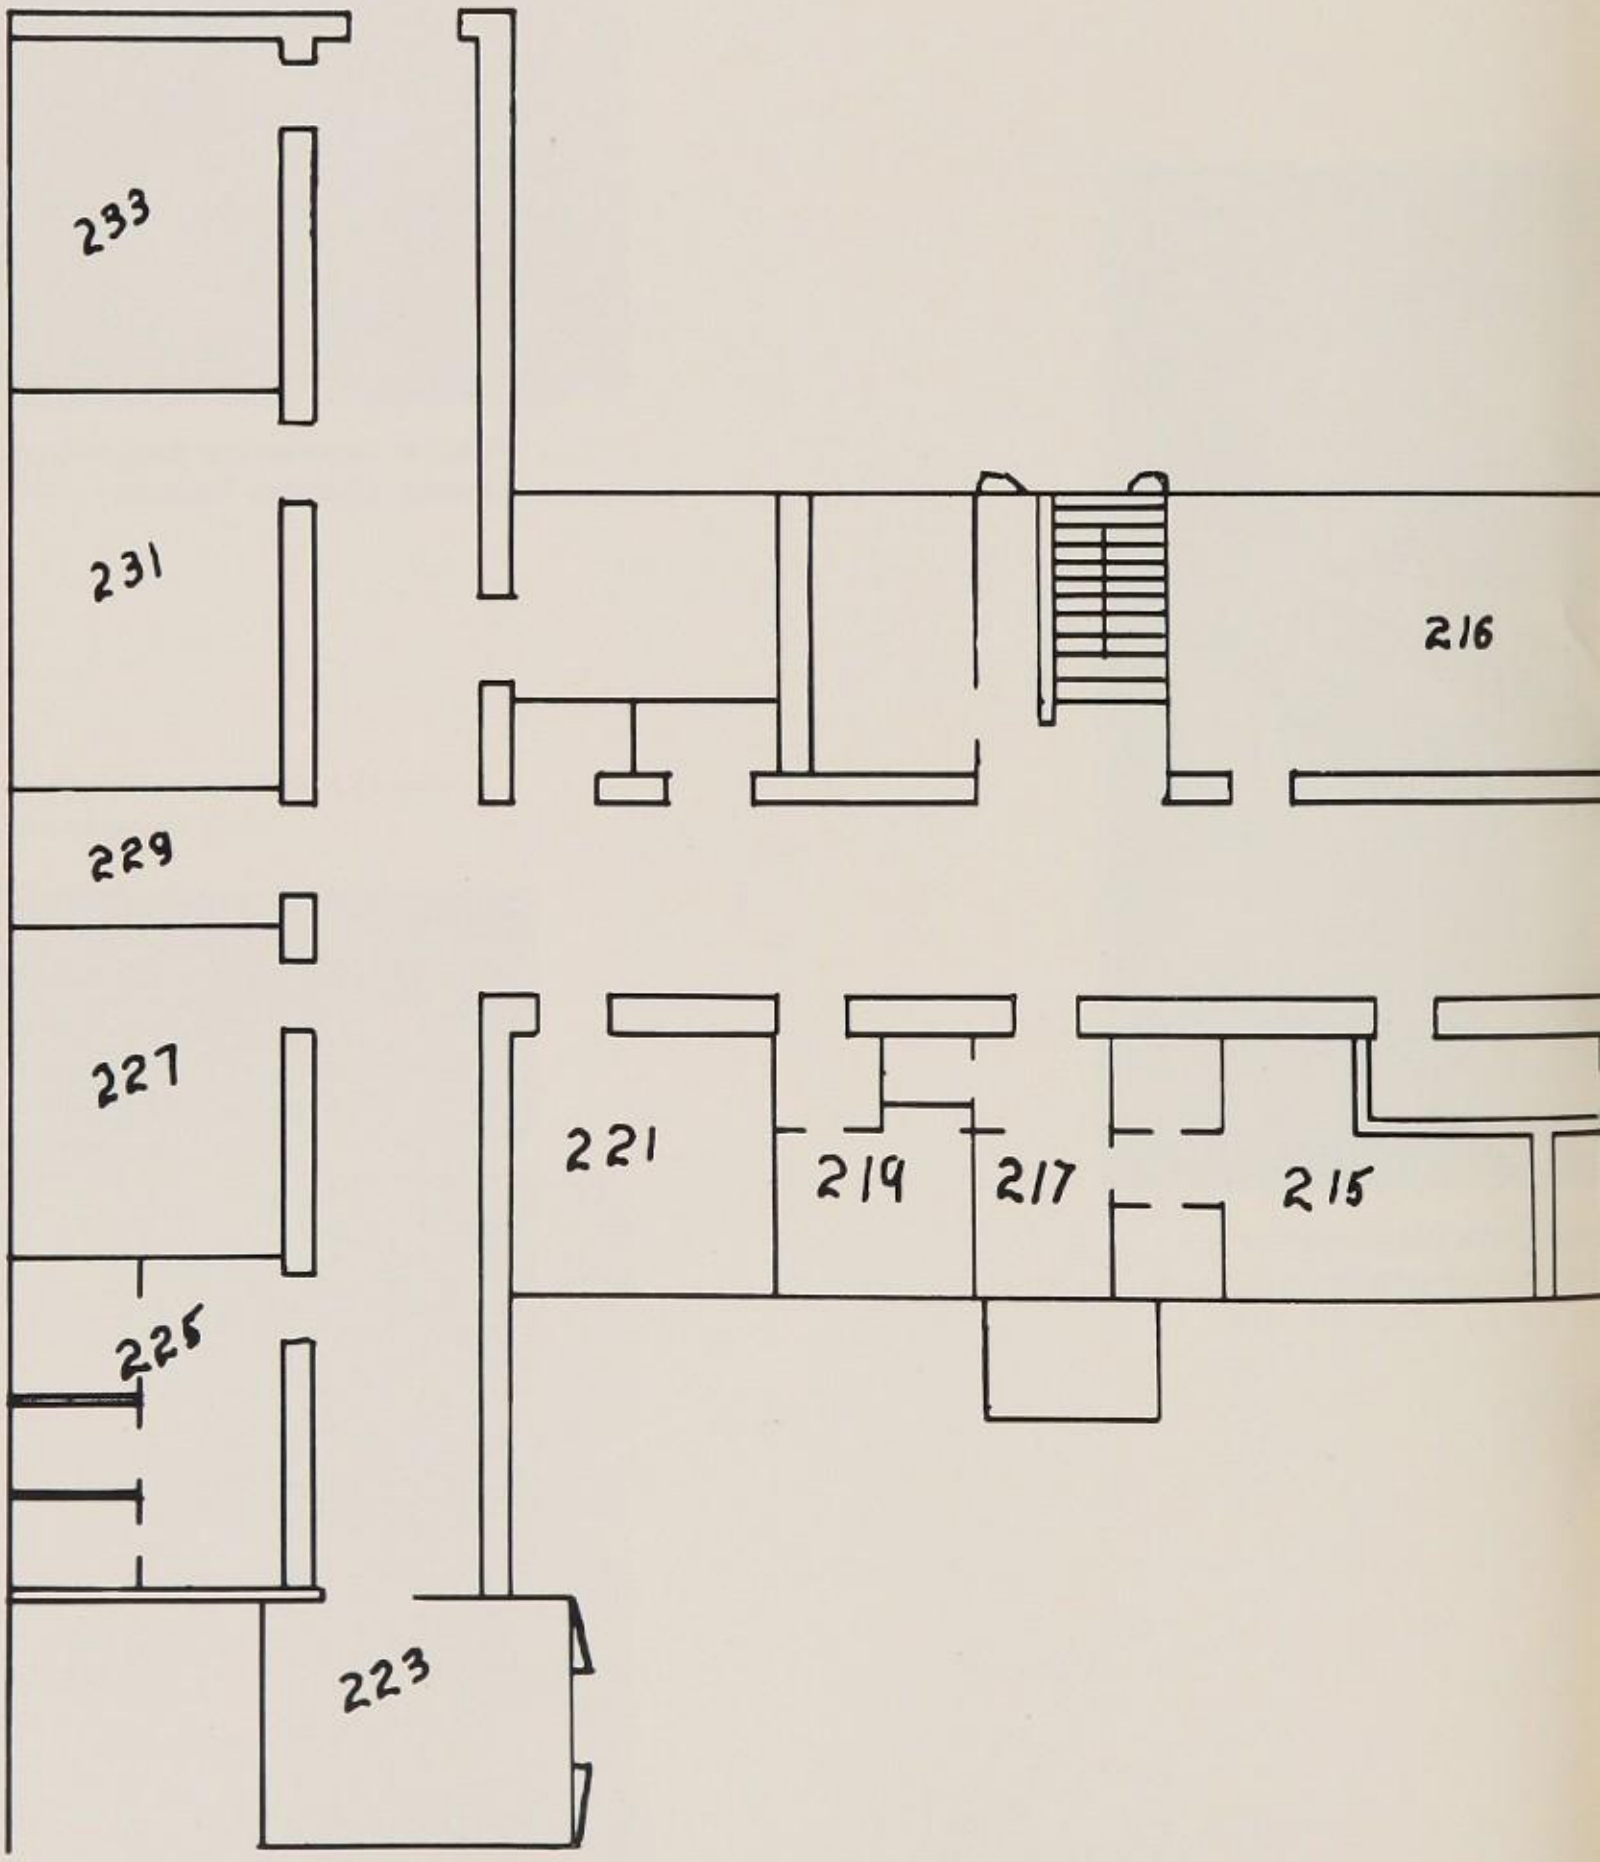
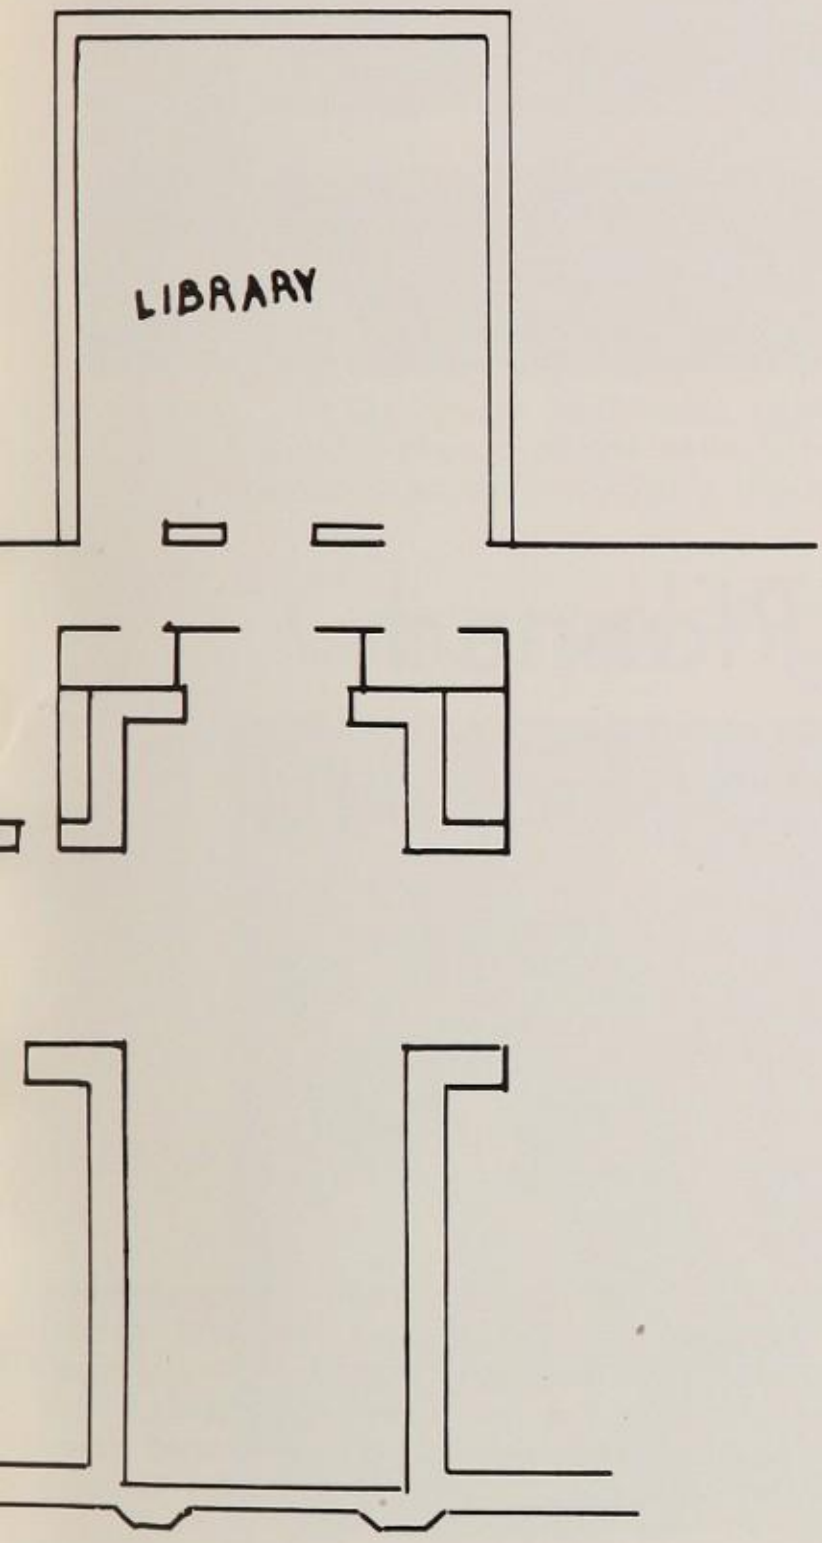
FACULTY Directs Student Life



From Offices



No matter what subject they teach, the task of faculty members is the same. They must mold out of the raw material which is a freshman, a useful adult citizen of the community. In addition to knowledge of formulas and verbs and mechanics, they freely give to each student guidance to put that knowledge to practical use and leadership in upholding the ideals of Bloom —service and loyalty.

As the new buildings neared completion, Bloom students found themselves deeply indebted to the Board of Education. Not only the present members but those who served before them, worked tirelessly on plans for the new addition. Now that this dream has been fulfilled, they are carefully studying new ideas for the improvement of our school. Special tribute was paid to Mr. Harry Lange, president for four years, who sparked the board's work. His resignation in mid-year to move East to a higher business position was keenly felt.

Mr. Howard Miller, Mrs. Dino Pignotti, Mr. Emmett Richards, Mr. Harry Lange, Dr. Paul Ashley, Mr. Charles Baker, Mr. Paul Keen.

Life At Bloom Is Planned

By the PTA and School Board

The P.T.A. works for greater understanding and cooperation between home and school through its monthly meetings, the annual open house, and the tea for freshman parents. This year supplied its members with a printed newsletter and sponsored several bake sales to raise money for the Student Loan Fund.

Seated: Mr. Lee Jankoviak, President; Mrs. Warren Croston, Vice-President. Standing: Mrs. Charles Donovan, Secretary; Mrs. Charles Niblock, Treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Ainscough, Mrs. Walter Fuller, Mrs. Norman Helmrath, Mrs. Robert Cordes, Mrs. A. G. Ellefson, Mrs. Herbert Cohrs, Mrs. Edmund Jaracz, Mrs. Peter Fushi, Dr. H. H. Metcalf.

Mr. Alfred Odegard

Miss Hildur Soderman

Each year the increase in Bloom's student population has meant a greater amount of work for Mr. Alfred Odegard, the assistant superintendent and business administrator. Besides directing the book rentals, bus service, bookeeping and other financial matters, Mr. Odegard must take care of many small problems which arise in a school the size of Bloom.

Miss Hildur Soderman, registrar, is an important figure in the life of every Bloomite. She is in charge of the main office and its workers, keeps all school records, including a transcript of each student's grades, and serves as Clerk of the Board of Education.

Counseling Program Expands

Seated: Mr. Albert Martin, Miss Juanita Schoff, Miss Ora Theobald, Miss Annette Gioannini, Mr. James Steckel. Standing: Miss Viola Herr, Mr. Eugene Neubauer, Mr. Alexander Feldvebel.

For some, a visit to their counselor is an unpleasant experience, but many others have found it a valuable source of information and guidance in future plans. As Bloom's enrollment reached a new high, the counselors worked harder than ever to give each student their personal attention.

This year Miss Viola Herr and Mr. Albert Martin were senior counselors. Miss Annette Gioannini joined Mr. James Steckel as a junior counselor and Miss Juanita Schoff and Mr. Alex Feldvebel gave advice to the sophomores. Miss Ora Theobald and Mr. Eugene Neubauer helped the freshmen adjust to life at Bloom.

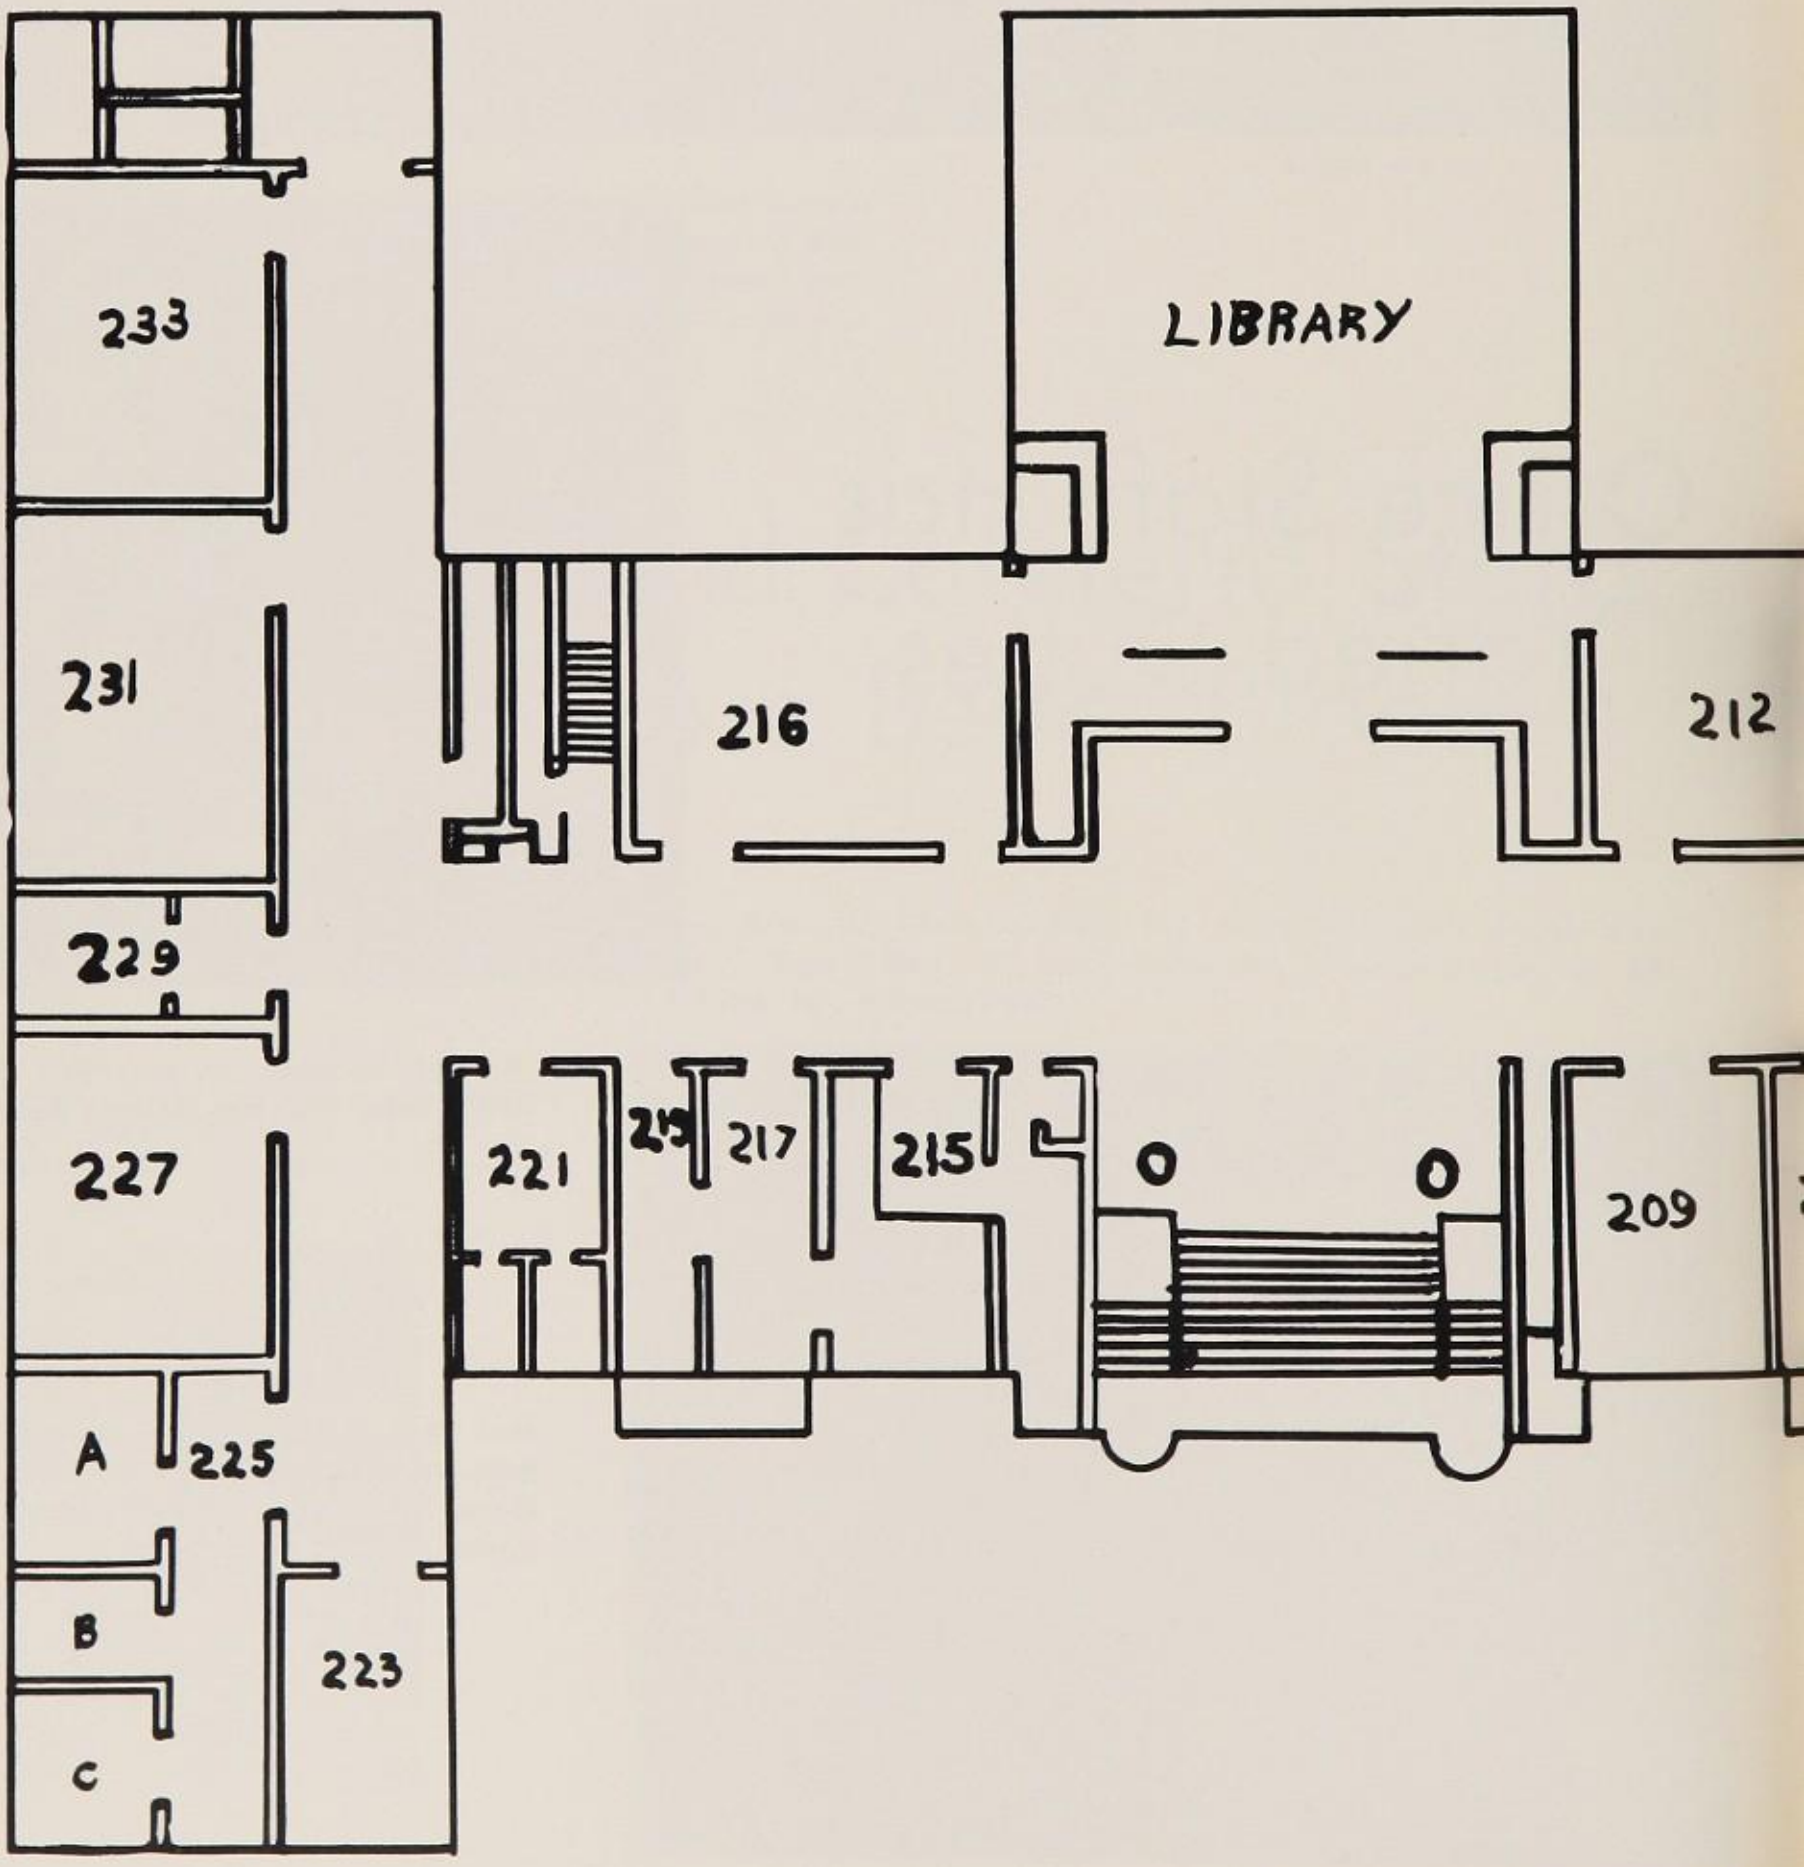
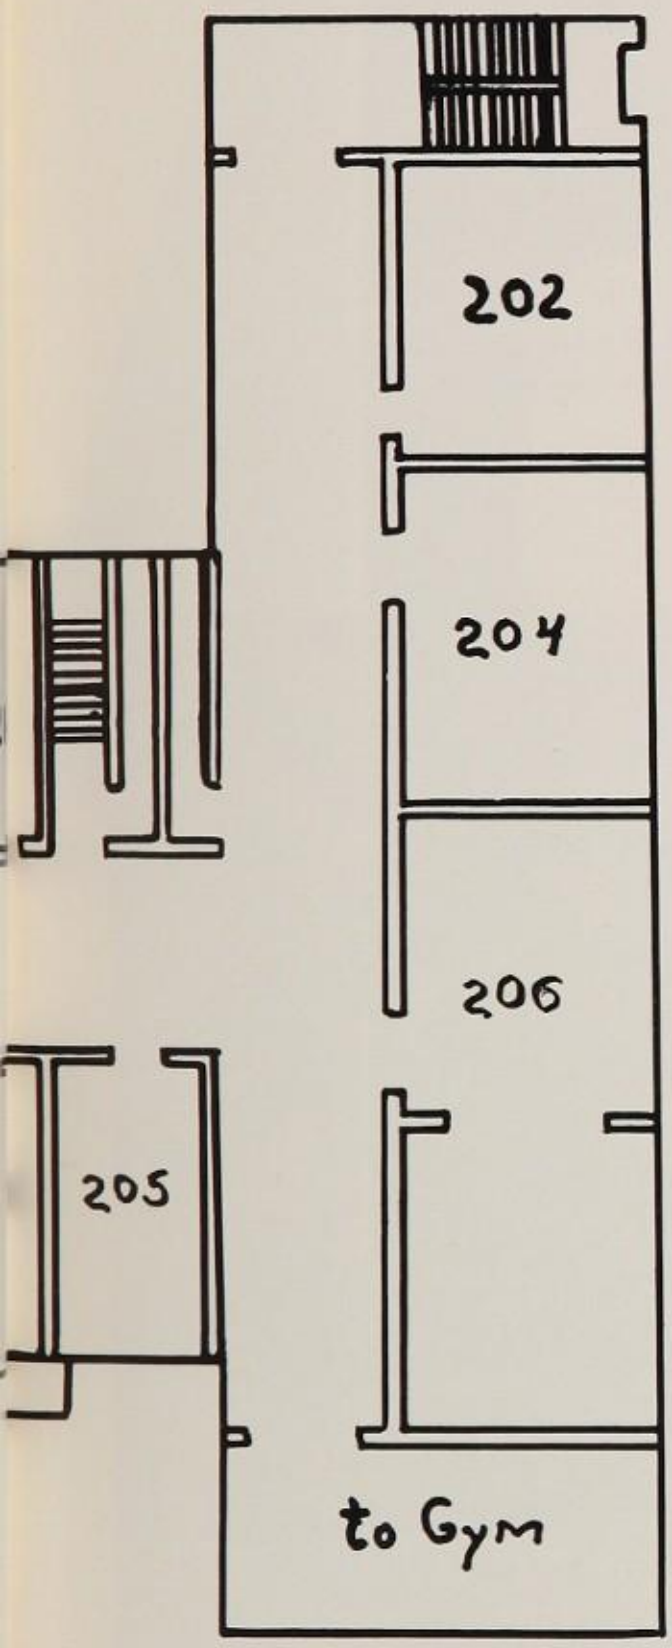
SENIOR Activities Center On Second



Floor



The blueprints drawn by the faculty in September were finally ready for construction as the class of 1957 prepared to take its chances in a world of trials and triumphs. Perhaps as they reach the coveted road of success they will attribute their accomplishments to the foundations of character and ability offered them during their four-year stay at Bloom and will remember the guidance and training received from those who invested so heavily in their future.

Senior Class

Vice-President . . . . . Ken Gitzendanner
President . . . . . David Leahy
Treasurer . . . . . Phyllis Patti
Secretary . . . . . Janice Antonucci

The senior officers, Phyllis Patti, David Leahy, Ken Gitzendanner, and Janice Antonucci, study over graduation plans with the sponsor, Mr. Robert Andrews.

Of all the busy classes at Bloom, the one that no doubt wins the prize is that of the seniors, and no one can be held more responsible for this situation than the senior board. During their last year at the school, these students arranged such events as the Senior Dinner Dance, the Baccalaureate, and the senior assembly.

Belonging to this group are members of each senior homeroom, who are well qualified to guide the activities of their class.

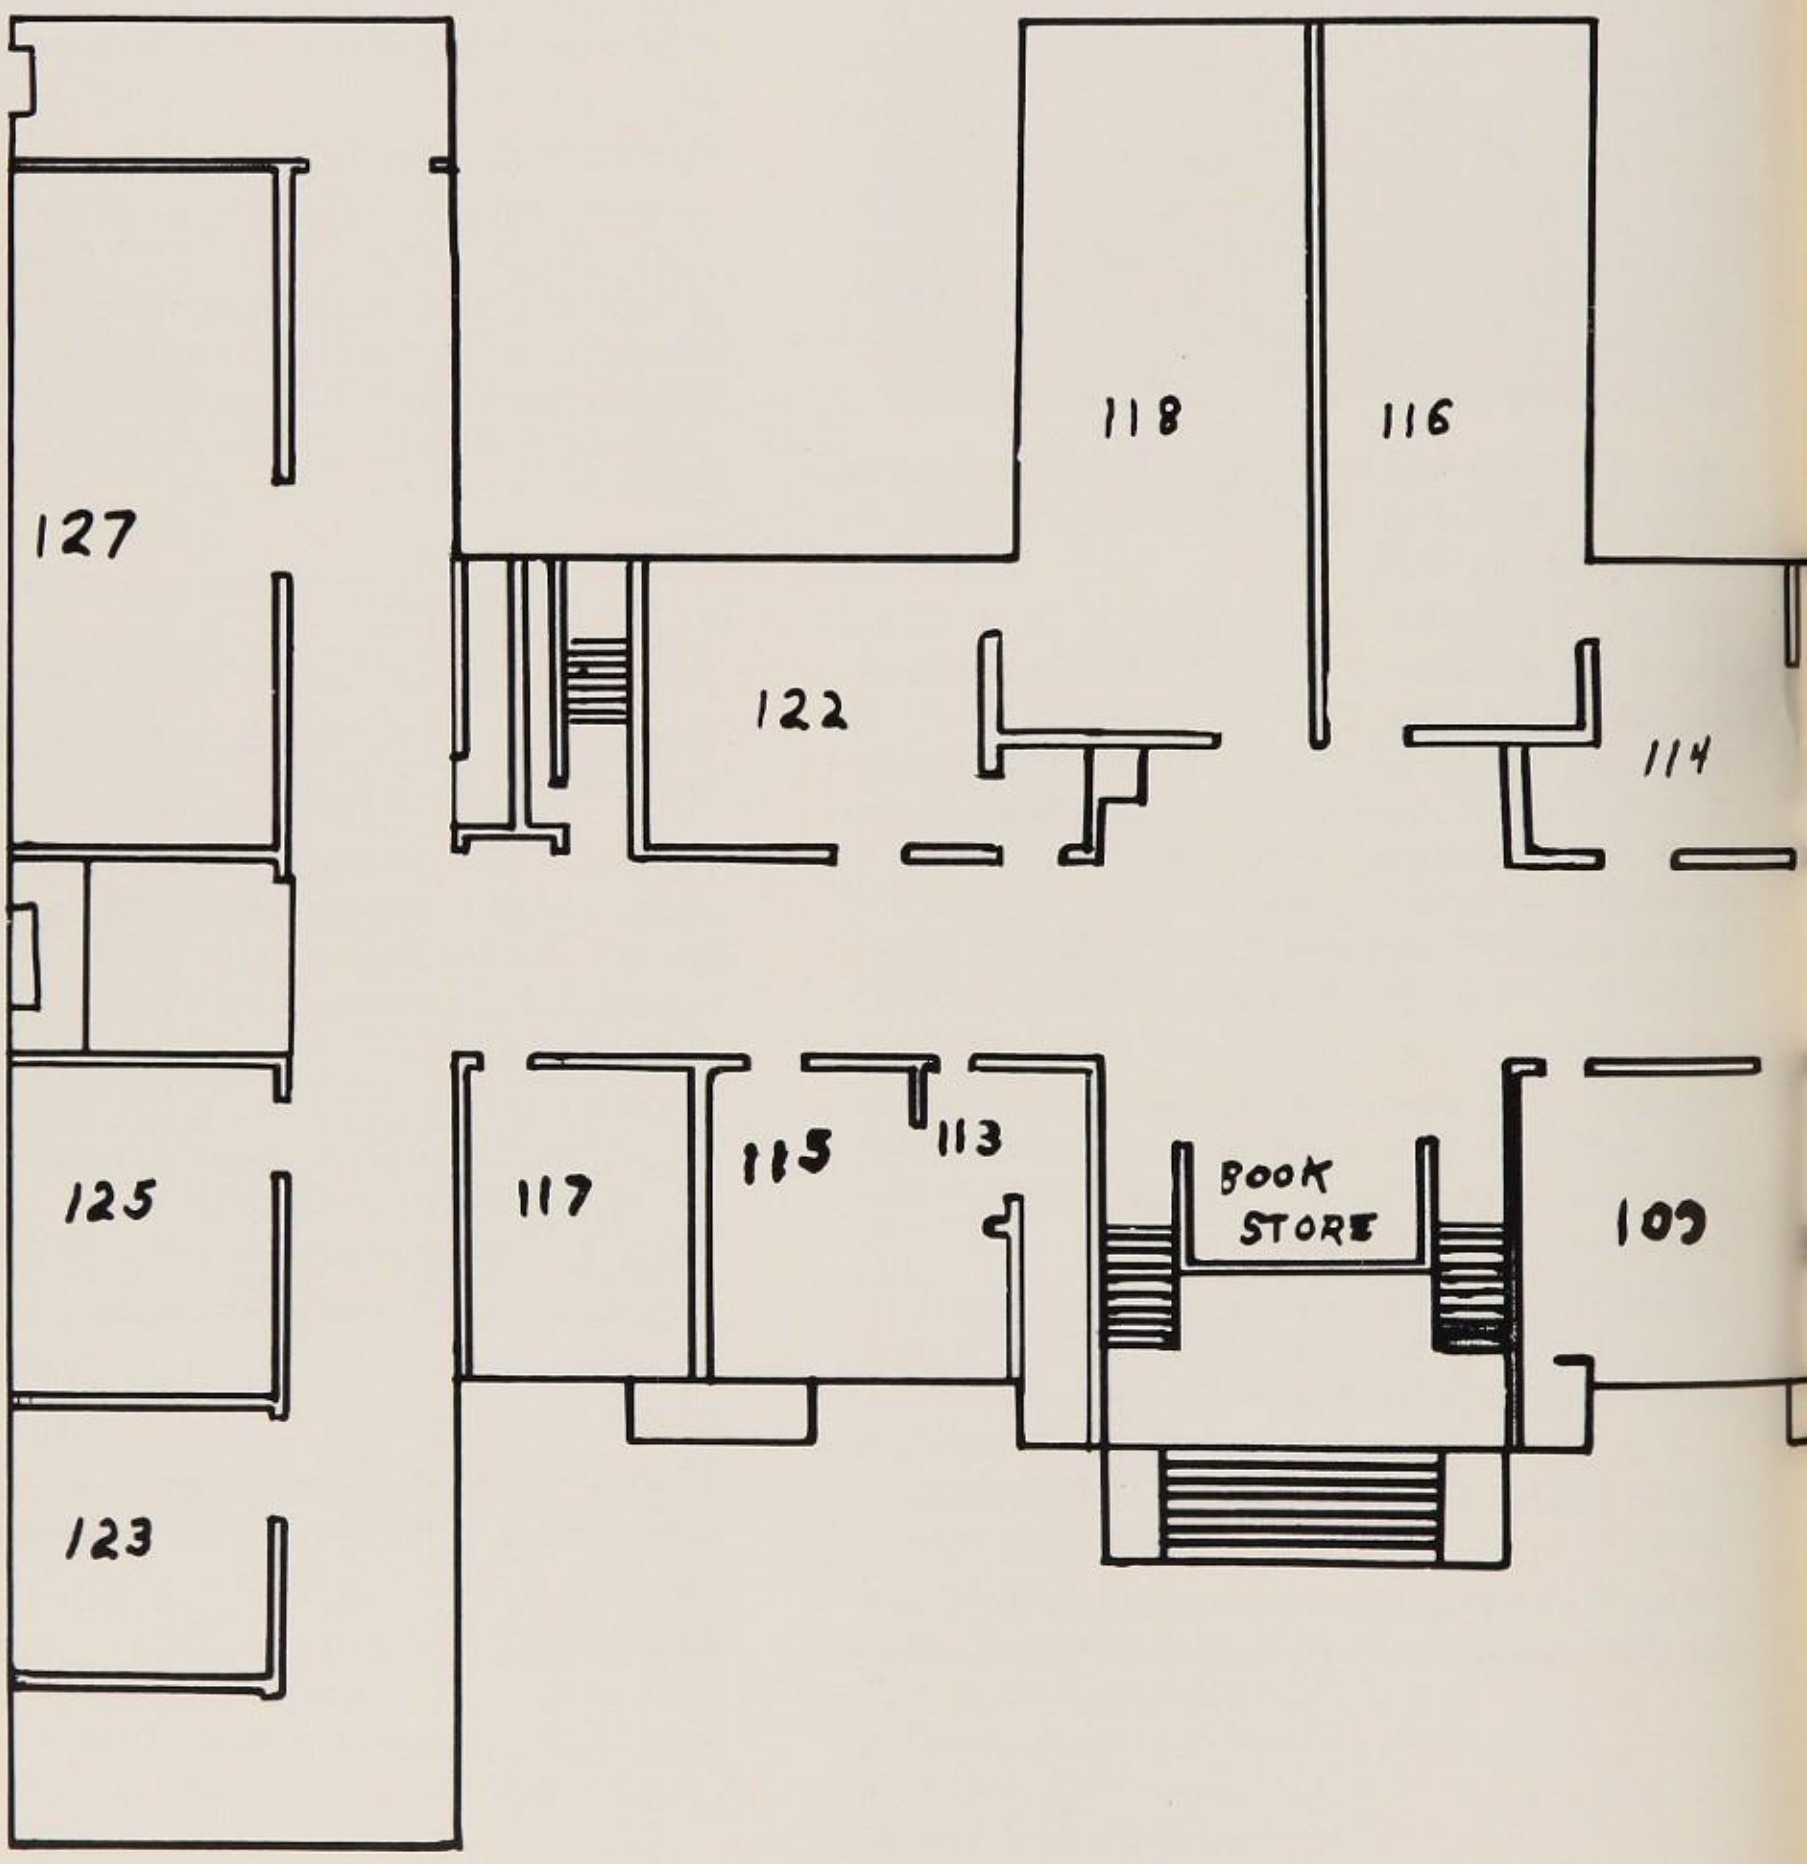
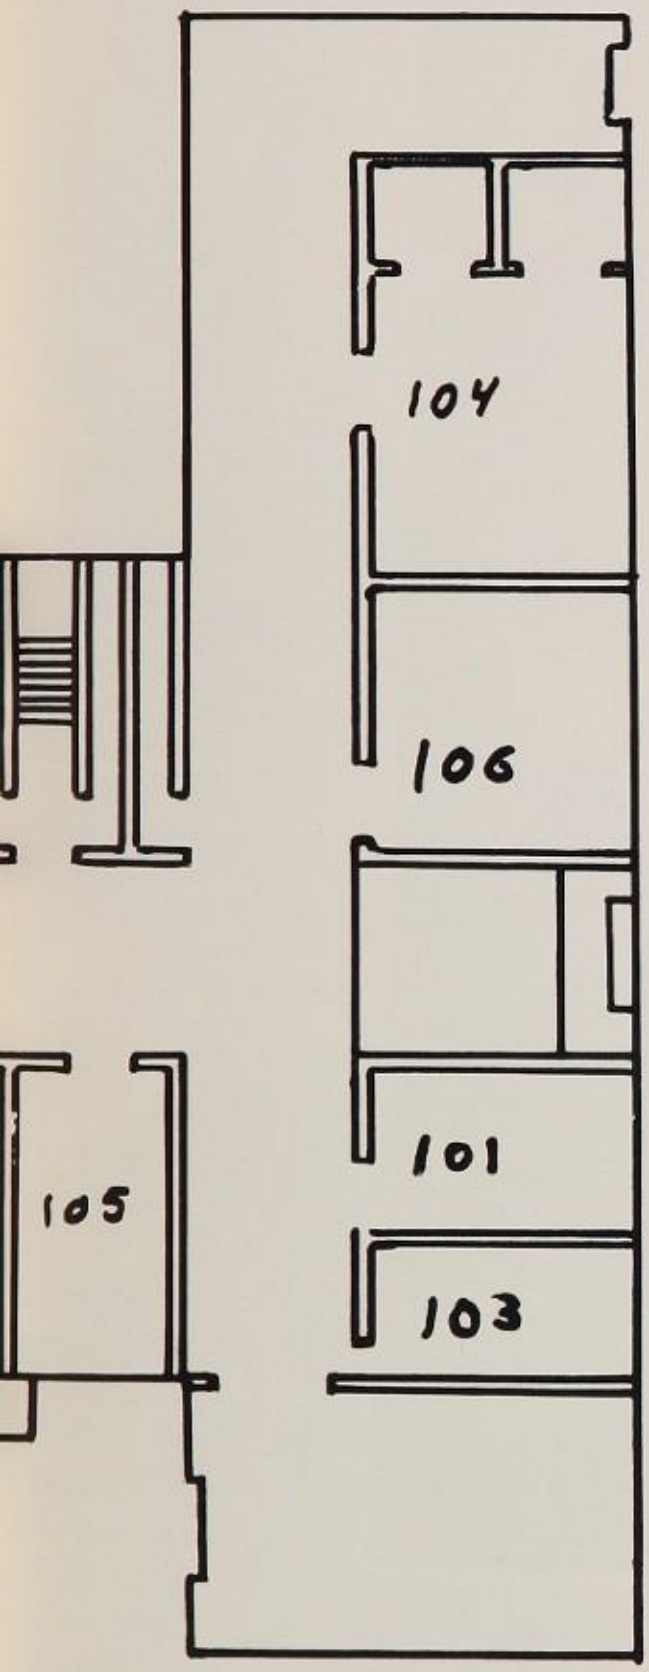
UNDERCLASSMEN Reign Over



First Floor



An important place in high school life belongs to the many students who are underclassmen. During the three years in which the terrified freshman develops into the confident junior he also gains the character and ability needed to make him an officer and leader of his class. With the aid of conscientious teachers and the examples set by helpful upperclassmen he is soon able to take his place as part of the closely-knit fellowship that is Bloom.

JUNIOR BOARD

Just one step below the senior level, the juniors were glad to be out of the under-class bracket this year. They showed this through their representatives on the Junior Board. These were the students who helped map the course of the social year for the juniors; and this certainly was a busy year for them. One of the highlights of it, as usual, was the junior penny social, an event which brings much pleasure and a goodly amount of money to the enthusiastic juniors.

SOPHOMORE BOARD

As in other classes, the sophomores are headed by a group known as the Sophomore Board. Each member of every homeroom takes part in electing his or her representative to this post. Outside activities and social events are put on through the initiative of the board and board members. The board, itself, is not in any way connected with the student council but is a separate organization for the sophomores to voice their opinions.

Freshman Class

Miss Chapman instructs Mary Napoli, John Barrett, Carol De Luca on the activities of the freshman class.

FRESHMAN BOARD

The class that probably least enjoyed this year was the freshman class. For, with the constant shouts of "freshie," around them, very much ease for them was an impossibility. But much of the fun the freshmen did have was direct result of the work of the Freshman Board. This group started right in planning and promoting social events for the frosh with the enthusiasm that typifies the freshmen of Bloom.
